THE following translation of the Eton Greek Grammar has been prepared under the idea that in many Schools and Seminaries, where the Eton system is adopted, such a work has long been considered desirable, in order to convey to the understanding of young boys the rules and principles of the Greek language in a simpler and easier manner, than through the medium of a foreign tongue. Keeping this design in view, the Translator has deemed it advisable to adhere as closely as possible to the Latin text. He is not aware of having in any instance materially deviated from it, or of having made any important insertion or alteration,²⁹ either in the text or notes, which did not seem to be required by a regard to plainness and perspicuity. It is hoped, therefore, that, without at all interfering with the use of the original work, a literal translation may prove an unexceptionable companion to it, and be found to conduce to the speedier acquisition of the language. It has no other aim than to enable the pupil to obtain a readier insight into the chief rules and idioms of the Greek tongue, and to retain them more permanently in his memory.

The old Greeks had only sixteen letters : afterwards the aspirates φ, χ, θ were added, and the double consonants ζ, ξ, ψ, and the long vowels η, ω, which were, previously to this time, expressed in the pronunciation : "Formerly," says Plato in his Cratylus, "we did not use η, but ε; nor ω, but ο;" and instead of the diphthong ou they wrote o. Athenæus, l. xi. c. 5.

N.B. Homer was unacquainted with the letters φ, χ, θ, ζ, ξ, ψ, η, ω.

The LETTERS are divided into vowels and consonants.

There are seven vowels, a, ε, η, ι, ο, υ, ω.

The other seventeen are consonants.

VOWELS.

Long vowels	η, ω.
Short	ε, ο.
Doubtful	α, ι, υ.
Changeable ¹	α, ε, ο.
Unchangeable	η, ι, υ, ω.
Prepositive ²	α, ε, η, ο, ω.
Subjunctive	ι, υ.

DIPHTHONGS.

There are twelve diphthongs:

Six proper,—αι, αυ, ει, ευ, οι, ου.

Six improper,—α, η, φ, with iota marked underneath;
ηυ, υι, ωυ.

Changeable³,—αι, αυ, οι.

Unchangeable,—ει, ευ, ου.

CONSONANTS

are of two kinds: mutes and semivowels.

¹ The vowels α, ε, ο are called Changeable, because they undergo a change in the augments of verbs: that is, α and ε are changed into η, and ο into ω.

² The vowels α, ε, η, ο, ω are called Prepositive, because they are always placed first in the formation of diphthongs: ι and υ are called Subjunctive, because they are subjoined, except in the diphthong υι.

³ The changeable diphthongs follow the same rules as the changeable vowels.

1. The mutes are nine in number, and are divided into

The smooth	$\pi, \kappa, \tau.$
The middle	$\beta, \gamma, \delta.$

There is an affinity between the letters $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \pi, \beta, \phi. \\ \kappa, \gamma, \chi. \\ \tau, \delta, \theta. \end{array} \right.$

2. The semivowels are double¹, $\zeta, \xi, \psi.$

The liquids, or unchangeable² consonants are, $\lambda, \mu, \nu, \rho.$

The letter Σ stands alone, unconnected with any of the rest.

ACCENTS.

There are three accents; the acute [$'$], the grave [$`$], the circumflex [\wedge]³.

1. The acute is placed on the last syllable, the last but one, and the last but two.

2. The circumflex on the last, and the last but one.

3. The grave accent is only marked on the last syllable; but it is understood in every syllable on which there is no accent⁴.

Every word, of which the last syllable is acute, un-

² That is, those which have no correspondent or kindred letters, into which they may be changed in the inflexions of verbs and nouns.

³ The acute accent raises, and as it were sharpens, syllables; the grave lowers them; the circumflex sustains, and lengthens them.

less it be at the end of a sentence, is marked with the grave accent, except τίς interrogative.

There are two breathings: the soft ['] and the aspirate [''].¹

Every word beginning with a vowel, or a diphthong, takes either the soft breathing, or the aspirate, in the beginning: as, ὄρος, a mountain; ὄρος, a boundary.

All words beginning with υ or ρ, are aspirated: as, ὕδωρ, water; ῥῆμα, a word. But if the letter ρ is doubled in the middle of a word, the first takes the soft breathing, the latter the aspirate: as ἔρρωσο, farewell.

Apostrophe is the sign of a vowel having been thrown out on account of a vowel following, thus ['].

The vowels α, ε, ι, ο, and the diphthongs αι and οι, are thrown out by apostrophe: as κατ' αὐτόν, for κατὰ αὐτόν.

If the vowel following be aspirated, the smooth consonants going before are changed into aspirates: as ἀφ' ἡμῶν, for ἀπὸ ἡμῶν, from us: τίφθ' οὕτω, for τίπτε οὕτω, why so?²

THE PARTS OF SPEECH.

There are eight parts of speech, as in the Latin language:

Article,	Participle,
Noun,	Adverb,
Pronoun,	Conjunction,
Verb,	Preposition.

¹ Formerly the letter Η was the mark of the aspirate breathing: they used to write Ηέκατον, what they afterwards wrote ἑκατον.

² Sometimes also a short vowel at the beginning of a word is taken away after a long one at the end of the word preceding; as τύχη γαθῇ. So μὴ οὐ is pronounced as a monosyllable, that is, μὴ 'υ' and μὴ 'υτδς for μὴ αὐτδς and μὴ 'δικεῖν for μὴ ἀδικεῖν. Sometimes these vowels are joined together by crasis; as, ἐγὼ οἶδα, ἐγῶδα· ἐγὼ οἶμαι, ἐγῶμαι.

There are three Numbers: singular, dual, and plural.

There are five Cases: the nominative, genitive, dative, accusative, vocative.

There are three Genders: masculine, feminine, and neuter.

THE ARTICLE.

✓ The Article is, \acute{o} , $\acute{\eta}$, $\tau\acute{o}$, (in Latin) hic, hæc, hoc, and is thus declined¹:

Sing.			Dual.
m.	f.	n.	m.	f.	n.
N. \acute{o} ,	$\acute{\eta}$,	$\tau\acute{o}$,	N. A. $\tau\acute{o}$,	$\tau\acute{\alpha}$,	$\tau\acute{o}$,

N. $οἱ$,	$αἱ$,	$τᾶ$,	D. $\tau\acute{o}\hat{ι}s$,	$\tau\acute{\alpha}\hat{ι}s$,	$\tau\acute{o}\hat{ι}s$,
G. $\tau\acute{\omega}\nu$,	$\tau\acute{\omega}\nu$,	$\tau\acute{\omega}\nu$,	A. $\tau\acute{o}\hat{υ}s$,	$\tau\acute{\alpha}s$,	$\tau\acute{\alpha}$.

DECLENSIONS OF SUBSTANTIVES.

There are ten Declensions:

¹ Grammarians call this the Prepositive article: the other, δs , η , δ , which may be better called the relative, they term the subjunctive.

Five of simple, and five of contracted, nouns.

The four first declensions of simple nouns are parissyllabic, that is, they do not increase their syllables in the genitive. The fifth is imparissyllabic, that is, it increases its syllables in the genitive.

THE FIRST DECLENSION OF SIMPLE NOUNS.

The first declension has two terminations, as and ης, of the masculine gender only: as, ὁ ταμίας, a steward; ὁ κριτής, a judge: but ὁ and ἡ ληστής, a robber, is, in the opinion of some, of the common gender.

Sing.

N. ὁ ταμίας,
G. τοῦ ταμίου,
D. τῷ ταμία,
A. τὸν ταμίαν,
V. ὦ ταμία.

Dual.

N. A. τὼ ταμία,
G. D. τοῖν ταμίαιν,
V. ὦ ταμία.

Plural.

N. οἱ ταμίαι,
G. τῶν ταμιῶν,
D. τοῖς ταμίαις,
A. τοὺς ταμίας,
V. ὦ ταμίαι.

Sing.

N. ὁ κριτής,
G. τοῦ κριτοῦ,
D. τῷ κριτῇ,
A. τὸν κριτὴν,
V. ὦ κριτὰ.

Dual.

N. A. τὼ κριτὰ,
G. D. τοῖν κριταῖν,
V. ὦ κριτὰ.

Plural.

N. οἱ κριταί,
G. τῶν κριτῶν,
D. τοῖς κριταῖς,
A. τοὺς κριτὰς,
V. ὦ κριταί.

Of the Genitive.

Every genitive plural ends in ων and in the first and second declension it usually takes the circumflex¹ accent on the last syllable.

Some nouns of this declension, declined according to the Doric dialect, make the Genitive in α as, ὁ ὄρεσιβάτης, a wanderer on the mountains, Gen. τοῦ ὄρεσιβάτα and proper names ending in ας as, ὁ Βρασίλας, Gen. τοῦ Βρασίλα.

Of the Dative.

The dative singular, in the four first declensions, has always ι written underneath: thus, α, η, φ.

Of the Vocative.

The vocative singular is formed from the nominative, by throwing away s.

The Exceptions are these:

1. Nouns ending in της as, μητιέτης, counsellor;
2. Nouns signifying a particular nation or country, as, Σκύθης, a Scythian;
3. Poetic nouns ending in πης as, κυνώπης, impudent;
4. Nouns compounded of πωλῶ, to sell; μετρῶ, to measure; τρίβω, to wear.

All these make the vocative in α short: as, *ὦ μητίετᾱ*², ὦ Σκύθᾱ.

Nouns ending in στης have both terminations, α and η as, ὁ ἡ ληστής, a robber, ὦ ληστᾱ or ληστή.

² Μητίετα—Il. α. 175. Θύεστα—Il. β. 107, &c. are not vocatives for nominatives; but in fact nominatives of the Æolic language.—Hence the Latin words, poëta, athleta, cometa, &c. “For the Latin language very much resembles the Æolic.” Quintil. Book i. C. 6.

THE SECOND DECLENSION.

The second declension has two terminations, a and η, of the feminine gender : as, ἡ μουσα, muse ; ἡ τιμὴ, honor.

Sing.	Dual.	Plural.
N. ἡ μουσα,	N. A. τὰ μούσα,	N. αἱ μουσαι,
G. τῆς μούσης,	G. D. ταῖν μούσαιν,	G. τῶν μουσῶν,
D. τῇ μούσῃ,	V. ὦ μούσα.	D. ταῖς μούσαις,
A. τὴν μούσαν,		A. τὰς μούσας,
V. ὦ μουσα.		V. ὦ μουσαι.

Sing. N. ἡ φίλια,——G. τῆς φίλιας,——D. τῇ φίλιᾳ.
In the rest of the cases, as μουσα.

Sing.	Dual.	Plural.
N. ἡ τιμὴ,	N. A. τὰ τιμὰ,	N. αἱ τιμαὶ,
G. τῆς τιμῆς,	G. D. ταῖν τιμαῖν,	G. τῶν τιμῶν,
D. τῇ τιμῇ,	V. ὦ τιμὰ.	D. ταῖς τιμαῖς,
A. τὴν τιμὴν,		A. τὰς τιμὰς,
V. ὦ τιμὴ.		V. ὦ τιμαὶ.

Words ending in δα, θα, ρα, and a pure, make the genitive in as, and the dative in a' thus, Ἀθηνᾶ, Minerva ; Ναυσικᾶ, Nausicaa ; μνᾶ, a coin or weight called mina ; these words are contracted from Ἀθηνάα, Ναυσικάα, μνάα.

A letter is called pure, when a vowel or diphthong goes immediately before it.

July 8th

THE THIRD DECLENSION.

The third declension has two terminations, os and ov of the masculine, feminine, and common gender ; as, ὁ λόγος, a discourse ; ἡ νόσος, a disease ; ὁ and ἡ λίθος, a stone ; and ov of the neuter gender, as τὸ ξύλον, wood.

Sing.	Dual.	Plural.
N. ὁ λόγος,	N. A. τὸν λόγῳ,	N. οἱ λόγοι,
G. τοῦ λόγου,	G. D. τοῖν λόγοιν,	G. τῶν λόγων,
D. τῷ λόγῳ,	V. ὃ λόγῳ.	D. τοῖς λόγοις,
A. τὸν λόγον,		A. τοὺς λόγους,
V. ὃ λόγε.		V. ὃ λόγοι.

Contracted nouns are of the third declension : as, ὁ νόος, νοῦς, the mind.

Sing.	Dual.
N. ὁ νόος, νοῦς,	N. A. τὸν νόῳ, νό,
G. τοῦ νόου, νοῦ,	with the acute accent.
D. τῷ νόῳ, νοῖ,	G. D. τοῖν νόοιν, νοῖν,
A. τὸν νόον, νοῦν,	V. ὃ νόῳ, νό.
V. ὃ νόε, νοῦ.

Plural.

N. οἱ νόοι, νοῖ,	A. τοὺς νόους, νοῦς,
G. τῶν νόων, νοῖν,	V. ὃ νόοι, νοῖ.
D. τοῖς νόοις, νοῖς,

Sing.	Dual.	Plural.
N. τὸ ξύλον,	N. A. τὸ ξύλῳ,	N. τὰ ξύλα,
G. τοῦ ξύλου,	G. D. τοῖν ξύλοιν,	G. τῶν ξύλων,
D. τῷ ξύλῳ,	V. ὃ ξύλῳ.	D. τοῖς ξύλοις,
A. τὸ ξύλον,		A. τὰ ξύλα,
V. ὃ ξύλον.		V. ὃ ξύλα.

THE FOURTH DECLENSION.

The fourth declension, which is peculiar to Attic writers, has two terminations, ως and ων. ως of the masculine, feminine, and common gender; and ων of the neuter : as, ὁ λεῶς, the people ; ἡ ἄλως, a threshing-floor ; τὸ ἀνώγειον, an upper chamber.

July 9th

Sing.	Dual.	Plural.
N. ὁ λεῶς,	N. A. τὼ λεῶ,	N. οἱ λεῶ,
G. τοῦ λεῶ,	G. D. τοῖν λεῶν,	G. τῶν λεῶν,
D. τῷ λεῶ,	V. ὦ λεῶ.	D. τοῖς λεῶς,
A. τὸν λεῶν,		A. τοὺς λεῶς,
V. ὦ λεῶς.		V. ὦ λεῶ.

Neuter nouns ending in ων are declined in the same manner, except that the vocative singular is like the nominative, and ends in ων, and the accusative with the vocative plural is like the nominative, and ends in ω. All of them have invariably ω in the last syllable.

Certain nouns of this declension make the accusative in ω as, Αθως*, Αθω*, mount Athos; Κέως, Κέω, the island Ceos; Κῶς, Κῶ, the island Cos; λαγῶς, λαγῶ, *a hare*¹.

The old Attics also rejected the final ν: as, ἀγήρω, for ἀγήρων, free from old age.

There is only one noun of this declension ending in ως, of the neuter gender, viz. τὸ χρέως, a debt.

July 10th

THE FIFTH DECLENSION.

The fifth declension, which is imparisyllabic, has eight² terminations: three vowels, α, ι, υ, of the neuter gender; and five consonants, ν, ρ, σ, ξ, ψ, of all genders.

¹ But Αθων* and λαγών are found.

² Formerly there seems to have been only one termination of this declension, namely, the letter Ξ after almost all the consonants, and many of the vowels: which letter formed the Nominative, and ο put before it in the word formed the Genitive: thus σῶμα was originally σῶμας, μέλι μέλις, γόνυ γόνυς or γόνας, τιτάν τιτάνς, μάρτυρ and μάρτυς μάρτυς, νύξ νύκτις, φλέψ φλέβς. See more on this subject in Markland on the Fifth Declension of the Greeks.

Sing.

N. τὸ σῶμα,
 G. τοῦ σώματος,
 D. τῷ σώματι,
 A. τὸ σῶμα,
 V. ᾧ σῶμα.

Dual.

N. A. τὸ σώματε,
 G. D. τοῖν σωματοιν,
 V. ᾧ σώματε.

Plural.

N. τὰ σώματα,
 G. τῶν σωμάτων,
 D. τοῖς σώμασι,
 A. τὰ σώματα,
 V. ᾧ σώματα.

Sing.

N. ὁ τιτάν,

RULES RELATING TO NOUNS IMPARISYLLABIC.

Of the Accusative singular.

The accusative ends in a. The following are the Exceptions:

1. Nouns ending in is, and us, avs, and ous, which, when they are pure in the genitive, make the accusative in v.¹ as, ὁ ὄφις, a serpent, τὸν ὄφιν· ὁ βότρυσ, a cluster, τὸν βότρυν· ἡ γραῦς, an old woman, τὴν γραῦν· ὁ and ἡ βοῦς, an ox or cow, τὸν and τὴν βούν. But Δις, Jupiter, makes Δία· λᾶας, a stone, makes λᾶαν.

2. Gravitones in is and us, if impure in the oblique cases, retain both terminations in a and v as, ἡ ἔρις, strife, τὴν ἔριδα and ἔριν· ὁ νέηλυς, a stranger, τὸν νεήλυδα and νέηλυν.

July 13.

¹ The Poets, however, use the accusative in a as, βότρυν, βόα.

Of the Vocative singular.

The vocative is like the nominative¹. The following are the Exceptions:

1. Words declined with ν and τος in the genitive: and adjectives ending in ην, εις, and ας which make the vocative in ν as, ὁ Αἴας, Ajax, ὦ Αἴαν· ὁ and ἡ τέρην, tender, ὦ τέρεν· ὁ χαρίεις, graceful, ὦ χαρίεν; and ὦ χαρίει· ὁ μέλας, black, ὦ μέλαν.

2. Gravitones in ηρ, which form the vocative in ερ as, ἡ μήτηρ, a mother, ὦ μήτερ· and five oxytone nouns, ὁ πατήρ, a father; ὁ δαῖρ, a husband's brother; ὁ ἀνὴρ, a man; ὁ σωτήρ, a saviour; ἡ γαστήρ, the belly: which make ὦ πάτερ, δάερ, ἄνερ, σῶτερ, γάστερ. 15 th

3. Nouns ending in εὺς and ους, which throw away ς as, ὁ βασιλεὺς, a king, ὦ βασιλεῦ· except ποῦς, a foot, which makes ὦ ποῦς· and ὀδοὺς, a tooth, which makes ὦ ὀδοὺς, to preserve the distinction between such words and the adverbs ποῦ, where, and ὁδοῦ, by the way.

4. Nouns ending in ις and υς, which make the vocative in ι and υ as, ὁ βότρυς, a cluster, ὦ βότρυν· ὁ ὄφις, a serpent, ὦ ὄφι· ὁ and ἡ παῖς, ὦ παῖ, boy or girl. Except oxytones ending in ις and υς, not contracted; as, ὦ Σαλαμῖς, Salamis, ὦ ἐλπῖς, hope, ὦ χλαμὺς, a cloak. 17 th

5. Nouns ending in ων and ωρ, which for the most part form the vocative from their genitives, by throwing away the termination: as, ὁ Ἀγαμέμνων, Agamemnon, voc. ὦ Ἀγάμεμνον· ὁ ἐλεήμων, merciful, voc. ὦ ἐλέημον· ὁ Ἑκτωρ, Hector, voc. ὦ Ἑκτορ· ὁ ῥήτωρ, a rhetorician, voc. ὦ ῥήτορ. But ὁ Ποσειδῶν, Neptune, makes in the vocative ὦ Ποσειδὼν· and ὁ Ἀπόλλων, Apollo, voc. ὦ Ἀπόλλον.

¹ Ἡ γυνή, a woman, which makes in the vocative ὦ γύναι, and ὁ ἄναξ, a king, which makes ὦ ἄνα, are irregular.

Participles ending in ων, εις, and ας, have the vocative the same as the nominative: as, ὁ τύπτων, οντος, voc. ὦ τύπτων· ὁ τυφθεὶς, έντος, voc. ὦ τυφθεὶς· ὁ ἰστὰς, άντος, voc. ὦ ἰστὰς.

18 ~~the~~

Of the Dative plural.

The dative plural is formed either from the dative singular by taking in σ before ι, and throwing away δ, θ, ν, τ; or from the nominative singular, by adding ι in nouns ending in ξ, ψ, or σ with a diphthong: as, Ἀραψ, an Arabian, Ἀραψι· βασιλεὺς, a king, βασιλεῦσι· κόραξ, a crow, κόραξι. Except ποὺς, a foot, dat. plur. ποσὶ· and κτεῖς, a comb, κτεσὶ·.

When the penultimate of the dative singular is long by position, it becomes long in the dative plural, by adding ι after ε, and υ after ο: as, τιθέντι, τιθεῖσι· λέοντι, λέουσι.

Nouns contracted by Syncope¹ make the dative plural in άσι as, πατήρ, πατράσι· υῖς, a son, Gen. υῖος· Sync. υῖος· dat. plur. νιάσι. July 20

The dative in use among the Poets is formed from the genitive singular by changing ος into εσι or εσσι as, ἥρωος, ἥρώεσι and ἥρώεσσι, to heroes; ἔπεος, ἐπέεσσι, to words.

Apocope also occurs in this declension, in all the cases of the singular number: as,

1. In the nominative, τὸ σκέπα, for σκέπασμα, a covering.

2. In the genitive, τοῦ Αἴαν, for Αἴαντος, of Ajax.

¹ Πατήρ, μήτηρ, and γαστήρ, although in the other cases they are contracted, in the accusative singular have no contraction, because πάτρα signifies a native country, μήτρα, a womb, and γάστρα, the hollow of a vessel.

3. In the dative, τῇ δαῖ, for δαῖδι, to the battle; τῇ παράκοιτι, for παρακοίτιδι, to the wife; τῷ ἰδρῶ, for ἰδρῶτι, to sweat. July 21

4. In the accusative, τὸν Ἀπόλλω, for Ἀπόλλωνα, Apollo; τὸν ἰδρῶ, for ἰδρῶτα, sweat.

5. In the vocative, ὦ Λαοδάμα, for Λαοδάμαν, Laodamas; ὦ Αἴα, for Αἴαν, Ajax.

To datives plural, and to verbs ending in ι or ε, ν is added, if a vowel or a diphthong follow; as, λέουσιν ἐκείνοις, to those lions; τύπτουσιν ἐκείνον, they beat him; ἔτυπτεν αὐτὸν, he smote him.

Among the Poets ν is very often added to a word, although a consonant follow: as, στήθεσσιν λασίοισι, in his raging breast.

OF THE FIVE DECLENSIONS OF CONTRACTED NOUNS.

The declensions of contracted nouns are derived from the fifth declension of simple ones.

They are called contracted nouns, because they have two syllables contracted into one; either by Synæresis¹, which is, when two vowels are so joined, that both are preserved; as, τείχεῖ, τείχει· or by Crasis, when each vowel, or one, is changed; as, τείχεα, τείχη· τριήρεις, τριήρεις· or when one is struck out; as, τειχέων, τειχῶν.

THE FIRST DECLENSION.

The first declension of contracted nouns has three terminations, ης, ες, and ος· ης of the masculine and feminine gender; as, ὁ Δημοσθένης, Demosthenes; ἡ τριήρης, a trireme; and ες and ος of the neuter; as, τὸ τεῖχος, a wall; τὸ ἵππομανές, hippomanes. X23

Sing.

- N. ἡ τριήρης,
G. τῆς τριήρεος, ρους,
D. τῇ τριήρεϊ, ρει,
A. τὴν τριήρεα, ρη,
V. ὦ τρήρες.

Dual.

- N. A. τὰ τρήρεε, ρη,
G. D. ταῖν τρήρεων, ροῖν,
V. ὦ τρήρεε, ρη.

Plural.

- N. αἱ τρήρεες, ρεις,
G. τῶν τρήρεων, ρῶν,
D. ταῖς τρήρεσι,
A. τὰς τρήρεας, ρεις,
V. ὦ τρήρεες, ρεις.

Sing.

- N. τὸ τεῖχος,
G. τοῦ τείχεος, ουσ,
D. τῷ τείχεϊ, ει,
A. τὸ τεῖχος,
V. ὦ τεῖχος.

Dual.

- N. A. τὼ τείχεε, χη,
G. D. τοῖν τείχεων, οῖν,
V. ὦ τείχεε, χη.

Plural.

- N. τὰ τείχεα, χη,
G. τῶν τείχεων, ῶν,
D. τοῖς τείχεσι,
A. τὰ τείχεα, χη,
V. ὦ τείχεα, χη.

Nouns compounded of κλέος, glory, as, Ἡρακλῆς, Ἑτεοκλῆς, are contracted in the nominative: hence arises a double way of declining them: as,

- N. Ἡρακλῆς,
G. Ἡρακλέεος, κλέους,
D. Ἡρακλέει, κλέει,
A. Ἡρακλέα, κλέα,
V. Ἡράκλεες, κλεις,

- Ἡρακλῆς,
Ἡρακλέος, κλοῦς,
Ἡρακλέϊ, κλεῖ,
Ἡρακλέα, κλη, Ἡρακλῆς.

Rules.

Proper names of this declension, and words compounded of ἔτος, a year, are in some of their cases declined without an increase of syllables : as, ὁ Διογένης, τὸν Διογένην, Diogenes ; ὁ Μάνης, τὸν Μάνην, Manes ; ὁ ἑπταέτης, τοὺς ἑπταέτας, seven years old.

Nouns which end in ης pure, are by the Attics contracted in the accusative into α : as, ὁ and ἡ εὐφυής, well-born, accusative τὸν and τὴν εὐφύεα, εὐφύᾱ¹.

THE SECOND DECLENSION.

The second declension has two terminations : ις, of the masculine and feminine gender ; as, ὁ ὄφις, a serpent ; ἡ πόλις, a city ; and ι of the neuter ; as, τὸ σίνηπι, mustard-seed.

Singular.

Attic.	Ionic.
N. ὁ ὄφις,
G. τοῦ ὄφεως,	ὄφιος,
D. τῷ ὄφει,	ὄφιϊ—ὄφι.
A. τὸν ὄφιν,
V. ὦ ὄφι.

Dual.

N. A. τὸ ὄφεε,	ὄφιε,
G. D. τοῖν ὄφειν,	ὄφίϊν,
V. ὦ ὄφεε,	ὄφιε.

Plural.

N. οἱ ὄφεις,	ὄφεις—ὄφισ,
G. τῶν ὄφεων,	ὄφίων,
D. τοῖς ὄφεσι,	ὄφισι,
A. τοὺς ὄφεις,	ὄφιας—ὄφισ,
V. ὦ ὄφεις,	ὄφεις—ὄφισ.

¹ In this declension, the masculines are peculiar to men ; the feminines end in ήρης ; and those which are common are only adjectives. Neuters also ending in ες are adjectives, from nouns common ending in ης : but those which end in ος are all substantives. Scot.

Sing.	Dual.	Plural.
N. τὸ σίνηπι,		N. τὰ σινήπια, πι,
G. τοῦ σινήπιος,	N. A. τὸ σινήπιε,	G. τῶν σινηπίων,
D. τῷ σινήπιϊ, πι,	G. D. τοῖν σινηπίοιιν,	D. τοῖς σινήπισι,
A. τὸ σίνηπι,	V. ὦ σινήπιε.	A. τὰ σινήπια, πι,
V. ὦ σίνηπι.		V. ὦ σινήπια, πι.

THE THIRD DECLENSION.

The third declension has three terminations: eus and us, of the masculine gender; as, ὁ βασιλεὺς, a king; ὁ πελεκὺς, an axe: and v of the neuter; as, τὸ ἄστυ, a city.

Sing.	Dual.
N. ὁ βασιλεὺς,	N. A. τὸ βασιλέε, ἦ ² ,
G. τοῦ βασιλέος ¹ ,	G. D. τοῖν βασιλέοιιν,
D. τῷ βασιλέϊ, εἶ,	V. ὦ βασιλέε, ἦ ² .
A. τὸν βασιλέα,
V. ὦ βασιλεῦ.

Plural.

N. οἱ βασιλέες, εἶς,	A. τοὺς βασιλέας, εἶς,
G. τῶν βασιλέων,	V. ὦ βασιλέες, εἶς.
D. τοῖς βασιλεῦσι,

Sing.	Dual.
N. ὁ πελεκὺς,	N. A. τὸ πελεκέε, ἦ ² ,
G. τοῦ πελεκέος,	G. D. τοῖν πελεκέοιιν,
D. τῷ πελεκέϊ, εἶ,	V. ὦ πελεκέε, ἦ ² .
A. τὸν πελεκὺν,
V. ὦ πελεκὺ.

¹ The genitive of masculine nouns in eus is generally made by the Attics to end in ews; and this ews is contracted into ous, in those nouns whose nominative ends in eus pure; as, ὁ χοεὺς, a gallon-measure, τοῦ χοέως, χοοῦς, and in the accusative τὸν χοέα, χοᾶ.

² This contraction seldom occurs.

Plural.

N. οἱ πελεκέες, εἷς,	A. τοὺς πελεκέας, εἷς,
G. τῶν πελεκέων,	V. ᾧ πελεκέες, εἷς.
D. τοῖς πελεκέσι,

Sing.

N. τὸ ἄστυ,
G. τοῦ ἄστεος,
D. τῷ ἄστεϊ, εἰ,
A. τὸ ἄστυ,
V. ᾧ ἄστυ.

Dual.

N. A. τὼ ἄστεε, ἡ ¹ ,
G. D. τοῖν ἀστέω,
V. ᾧ ἄστεε, ἡ.

Plural.

N. τὰ ἄστεα, ἡ,	A. τὰ ἄστεα, ἡ,
G. τῶν ἀστέων,	V. ᾧ ἄστεα, ἡ. ✓
D. τοῖς ἄστεσι,

Certain Nouns of this declension also are by the Attics contracted into a in the accusative: as, ὁ Πειραιεύς, the Piræus, accus. τὸν Πειραιᾶ.

THE FOURTH DECLENSION.

The fourth declension has two terminations, ως and ω, of the feminine gender only: as, ἡ φειδῶ, parsimony; ἡ αἰδῶς, modesty.

Sing.	Dual.	Plural.
N. ἡ φειδῶ,	N. A. τὰ φειδῶ,	N. αἱ φειδοὶ,
G. τῆς φειδόος, οὖς,	G. D. ταῖν φειδοῖν,	G. τῶν φειδῶν,
D. τῇ φειδοί, οἷ,	V. ᾧ φειδῶ.	D. ταῖς φειδοῖς,
A. τὴν φειδόα, ᾧ,		A. τὰς φειδοὺς,
V. ᾧ φειδοῖ.		V. ᾧ φειδοῖ. ✓

THE FIFTH DECLENSION.

The fifth declension has two terminations, as pure, and ras, of the neuter gender: as, τὸ κρέας, flesh, τὸ κέρας, horn.

Singular.

N.	τὸ κέρας,
G.	τοῦ κέρατος, by Syncope	κέραος, by Crasis	κέρωσ,
D.	τῷ κέρατι,	κέραϊ,	κέρα,
A.	τὸ κέρας,
V.	ὦ κέρας.

Dual.

N. A.	τὸ κέρατε,	κέραε,	κέρα,
G. D.	τοῖν κεράτοι,	κεράω,	κερῶ,
V.	ὦ κέρατε,	κέραε,	κέρα.

Plural.

N.	τὰ κέρατα,	κέραα,	κέρα,
G.	τῶν κεράτων,	κεράων,	κερῶν,
D.	τοῖς κέρασι,
A.	τὰ κέρατα,	κέραα,	κέρα,
V.	ὦ κέρατα,	κέραα,	κέρα.

The article is often so conjoined with its noun as to form one syllable, when the former ends in a vowel, and the latter begins with a vowel: as, instead of ὁ ἀνὴρ, ἀνὴρ· τοῦ ἀνδρὸς, τὰνδρὸς· τῷ ἀνδρὶ, τὰνδρὶ· τὰ ἐμὰ, τὰμὰ. When the noun begins with an aspirate, the smooth τ in the article is changed into θ· as, instead of τὸ ἱμάτιον, θοιμάτιον· ὁ ἕτερος, ἄτερος· τοῦ ἐτέρου, θατέρου· τῷ ἐτέρῳ, θατέρῳ.

In the same way, καὶ εἴτα is made κᾷτα· καὶ ἐκεῖνα, κᾷκεῖνα· καὶ ὑπὸ, χύπὸ. From this concurrence of short vowels the syllable is made long.

THE IRREGULAR NOUNS, which are contracted, are,

I. Those which are contracted in all the cases : as,

1. Νόος, νοῦς, the mind ; ῥόος, ῥοῦς, a stream ; πλόος, πλοῦς, a voyage ; ἀπλόος, ἀπλοῦς, simple ; διπλόος, διπλοῦς, double ; σάος, safe, σῶς in the Attic dialect, and in the accusative σῶν.

2. Χρυσοῦς, golden ; ἀργυροῦς, made of silver ; χαλκοῦς, brazen, from nouns ending in έός.

3. Σιμόεις, Σιμοῦς· Σιμόεντος, Σιμοῦντος, the Simoïs ; πλακόεις, πλακοῦς· πλακóεντος, πλακοῦντος, a cake.

4. Ὁ τιμῆς, τιμῆντος, from τιμήεις, honoured.

5. Nouns circumflexed in ῆρ : as, τὸ κῆρ, κῆρος, from κέαρ, the heart ; ὁ and ἡ παῖς, παῖδος, from παῖς, a boy or girl.

6. Also, τὸ ὀστέον, a bone, ὀστοῦν, Gen. ὀστέου, ὀστοῦ, Dat. ὀστέῳ, ὀστῶ.

ἸΗΣΟΥΣ is thus declined :

N. ὁ Ἰησοῦς,	A. τὸν Ἰησοῦν,
G. τοῦ Ἰησοῦ,	V. ὦ Ἰησοῦ.
D. τῷ Ἰησοῦ,

II. Those which are contracted only in a few of their cases ; as,

1. Gravitone Substantives ending in υς, which are contracted in the nominative, accusative, and vocative plural into ῦς : as, Ἐριννύες, Ἐριννῦς, Furies.

2. Imparisyllabic nouns ending in ους, which are contracted in the nominative, accusative, and vocative plural, into οῦς : as, βόες, βοῦς, by the Doric dialect βῶς, oxen.

3. Adjectives ending in us, of which the masculines in the dative singular, and in the nominative, accusative, and vocative plural, are contracted in the same manner as in the third declension of contracted nouns: as, Nom. ἡδὺς, Gen. ἡδέος, Dat. ἡδέϊ, ἡδεῖ· Nom. and Voc. plur. ἡδέες, ἡδεῖς, Acc. ἡδέας, ἡδεῖς.

4. Adjectives of the comparative degree, which are contracted in the accusative singular, and in the nominative, accusative, and vocative plural: as, Acc. μείζονα, by Syncope μείζοα, by Crasis μείζω· Nom. and Voc. μείζονες, μείζοες, μείζους, and μείζονα, μείζοα, μείζω· Acc. μείζονας, μείζοας, μείζους, and μείζονα, μείζοα, μείζω.

HETEROCLITES.

Heteroclites are words which differ from the usual manner of declining.

1. Heteroclites in genders.

The following nouns, and a few others, are of the masculine gender in the singular number, and of the neuter gender in the plural: namely, ὁ ἔρετμος, an oar, τὰ ἔρετμα· ὁ λύχνος, a candle, τὰ λύχνα· ὁ μοχλὸς, a bolt, τὰ μοχλὰ· ὁ τράχηλος¹, the neck, τὰ τράχηλα.

The following are feminine in the singular number, and neuter in the plural; ἡ δίφρος, a chariot, τὰ δίφρα: ἡ κέλευθος, a way, τὰ κέλευθα· to which may be added, ὁ and ἡ τάρταρος¹, plur. τὰ τάρταρα.

2. Heteroclites in Cases.

I. Aptotes are,

1. Names of letters: as, ἄλφα, βῆτα.

¹ Formerly these nouns had two terminations, os and on: so in Latin, jocus, locus, &c. make in the plural joci and joca, loci and loca.

2. Words affected by the figure Apocope: as, δῶ for δῶμα, a house; τρόφι for τρόφιμον, nourishment.

3. All numerals from four to a hundred.

4. Poetic nouns ending in φι and φιν· as, θύρῃφι from θύρα· στρατόφι from στρατός· ναῦφι from ναῦς· στήθεσφι from στήθος.

5. In like manner, δέμας, a body; σέβας, reverence; ὄναρ, a dream; ὄφελος, advantage; νῶκαρ, torpor; δῶς, a gift, &c.

II. There is but one Monoptote, as, ὦ τᾶν, O friend, or friends, from ἑτης.

III. The following are Diptotes, οἱ φθοῖες, τοὺς φθοῖας, cakes; ἅττα and ἄσσα, for ἅτινα, certain things, Nom. and Acc. plur.

IV. Triptotes, Gen. ἀλλήλων, λων, λων· Dat. ἀλλήλοις, αῖς, οῖς· Acc. ἀλλήλους, λας, λα.

Indefinite words, and interrogatives, have no vocative case.

3. Heteroclites in Number.

The following nouns have no dual or plural: ἡ ἅλς¹, the sea; ἡ γῆ, earth; ὁ ἀήρ, air; τὸ πῦρ, fire; τὸ ἔλαιον², oil.

The following have no singular: ἄλφιστα, victuals; Ἀθήναι, Athens; ὀνείρατα, dreams; and the names of the festivals of the Gods, with many others.

² Ἐλαια occurs only once in the plural number: Callim. in Apoll. v. 38.

4. Heteroclites in Declension.

There are some neuters in ρ , which borrow their genitive from nouns in as: as, φρέαρ, a well; ἥπαρ, the liver; ὕδωρ, water; ἡμαρ, a day; εἶδαρ, food; σκῶρ, dung: Gen. φρέατος, ἥπατος, ὕδατος, ἡματος, εἶδατος, σκατὸς, &c.

To these may be added, γάλα, milk, γάλακτος.¹ γυνή, a woman, γυναικὸς.¹ which borrow their genitives from nominatives out of use, γάλαξ and γυναιξ.

OF PATRONYMICS.

A Patronymic is a noun which is derived from the name either of a Father, or of any other person of his family.

Masculine patronymics end,

1. In ίδης, which are formed from the genitive cases of the primitive words, by changing the termination into ίδης: as, Πρίαμος, ου, Πριαμίδης· Νέστωρ, ορος, Νεστορίδης· Αητῶ, όος, οἶδης· from Πηλέως is made Πηλεΐδης, by Epenthesis Πηλεΐάδης· and from the Ionic genitive Πηλῆος, Πηληϊάδης.

2. In άδης, when the noun is either of the first declension; as, Βορέας, ου, Βορεάδης· Ἰππότης, ου, Ἰπποτάδης· or when the primitive is of the third declension, and ends in os pure: as, Ἥλιος, ου, Ἠλιάδης· Ναύπλιος, ου, Ναυπλιάδης. When the primitive is long in the penultimate of the genitive case, of whatever declension it be, the patronymic generally ends in ιάδης· as, Λαέρτης, έρτου, Λαερτιάδης· Ἄτλας, λαντος, Ἀτλαντιάδης· Ἀμφιτρύων, ωνος, Ἀμφιτρυωνιάδης.

Feminine Patronymics end,

1. In is or as, which are formed from the masculines, by removing δη as, Νεστορίδης, Νέστορις Ἡλιάδης, Ἡλιάς.

2. In η̑s, from the nominative of the primitives: as, from Χρύσης, Χρυση̑ς from Βριση̑ς, Βριση̑ς from Κάδμος, Καδμη̑ς.

3. In ίνη, or ώνη, which are formed from the genitive of the primitives, by changing the last syllable into ίνη, or ώνη as, Ἀδραστος, Ἀδράστου, Ἀδράστίνη Ἰκάριος, Ἰκαρίου, Ἰκαριώνη. Sometimes they are formed from the nominative in ων as, Ἡετίων, Ἡετίωνη.

Ionic Patronymics end in ίων, or είων as, Κρονίων, Πηλείων, Ἀτρείων¹.

DIMINUTIVE NOUNS have various terminations; as,

I. Masc. in	{	ων,	μωρίων,	a little fool.
		αξ,	λίθαξ,	a little stone.
		σκος,	νεανίσκος,	a youth.
		λος,	ναυτίλος,	a nautilus.
II. Fem. in	{	ις,	κρηνὶς,	a little fountain.
		σκη,	παιδίσκη,	a little girl.
		νη,	πολίχνη,	a little town.
III. Neut. in	{	ιον,	γνωμίδιον,	a short sentence.
			πολίχνιον,	a little town.

POSSESSIVES end in

1. κος,	as,	μουσικὸς,	musical,	from μούσα.
2. ιος,	as,	οὐράνιος,	heavenly,	from οὐρανὸς.
3. νος,	as,	ἀνθρώπιος,	human,	from ἄνθρωπος.
4. εἰος,	as,	ἀνθρώπειος,	human,	from ἄνθρωπος.
5. ωδης,	as,	λιθώδης,	stony,	from λίθος.
6. ωος,	as,	πατρῶος,	paternal,	from πατήρ.

¹ Some are irregular; as, Λαμπετίδης, the son of Lampus, Il. ο. v. 526. Δευκαλίδης, the son of Deucalion, Il. ν. v. 307. But perhaps the form of these primitives was two-fold. Λάμπος and Λάμπετος, Δευκαλίων and Δεύκαλος. So also Οἰδίπους and Οἰδίποδης.

DECLENSIONS OF ADJECTIVES.

Adjectives follow the form and declensions of substantives.

Adjectives which end in os pure, and pos, make the feminine in a, others in η, and the neuter in ον: as, ἅγιος, ἁγία, ἅγιον, holy; ἀνθηρὸς, ἀνθηρὰ, ἀνθηρὸν, flowery.

The following are excepted, ὄγδοος, ὅη, οον, the eighth; and contracted nouns ending in eos and oos: as, χρύσεος, golden; ἀπλόος, simple.

Four adjectives make their neuter in o and ον: as, ἄλλος, τηλικούτος, τοσοῦτος, τοιοῦτος: and three pronouns, οὗτος, αὐτὸς,¹ ἐκεῖνος, in o.

Except πολὺς, πολὺν, Acc. πολὺν, πολὺν. In the Poetic Genitive πολέος, Dat. πολέϊ. Plur. Nom. πολέες, Gen. πολέων, Dat. πολέσι, Acc. πολέας.

Adjectives ending in as have the feminine in ασα, and the neuter in αν: as, πᾶς, πᾶσα, πᾶν, all: but Nom. μέγας, μέγα, Acc. μέγαν, μέγα.

Πολὺς borrows some of its cases from the obsolete word πολλὸς: so μέγας borrows some of its cases in the singular, and all in the dual and plural, from the obsolete word μέγας· μέλας, μέλανος, takes all its feminines from the obsolete word μέλαινος· as also τάλας, τάλανος, all its feminines from the obsolete word τάλαινος.

Singular.

	Masc.	Fem.	Neut.
Nom.	ὁ πᾶς	ἡ πᾶσα	τὸ πᾶν
Gen.	παντὸς	πάσης	παντὸς

Dat.	πᾶσι	πάσαις	πᾶσι
Acc.	πάντας	πάσας	πάντα
Voc.	πάντες	πᾶσαι	πάντα. ✓

Adjectives declined with three genders, and only two terminations, end in

¹ Among the oldest Greeks, all adjectives derived from other words, and ending in ος, were declined with three genders. Porson on Med. v. 822.

as,	{	ὁ καὶ ἡ ἀληθής,	καὶ τὸ ἀληθές,	true.
		ὁ καὶ ἡ εὐχαρίς,	καὶ τὸ εὐχαρί,	graceful.
		ὁ καὶ ἡ ἄδακρυς,	καὶ τὸ ἄδακρυ,	tearless.
		ὁ καὶ ἡ πολύπους,	καὶ τὸ πολύπουν,	many-footed.
		ὁ καὶ ἡ τέρην,	καὶ τὸ τέρεν,	tender.
		ὁ καὶ ἡ εὐδαίμων,	καὶ τὸ εὐδαιμον,	fortunate.
		ὁ καὶ ἡ εὐγεως,	καὶ τὸ εὐγεων,	fertile.
		ὁ καὶ ἡ ἀθάνατος,	καὶ τὸ ἀθάνατον,	immortal.

Some are of three genders, (with only one termination;) as, ὁ, ἡ, τὸ μάκαρ, blessed; ὁ, ἡ, τὸ ἄρπαξ, raptacious; ὁ, ἡ, τὸ μανιὰς, mad.

Singular.

	Masc.	Fem.	Neut.

Singular.

- Nom. ὁ καὶ ἡ εὐχαρις, καὶ τὸ εὐχαρι,
 Gen. τοῦ, καὶ τῆς, καὶ τοῦ εὐχαρίτος,
 Dat. τῷ, καὶ τῇ, καὶ τῷ εὐχαρίτι,
 Acc. τὸν καὶ τὴν εὐχάρिता, and εὐχαριν, καὶ τὸ εὐχαρι,
 Voc. ὦ εὐχαρι.

Dual.

- N. A. τὼ, καὶ τὰ, καὶ τὼ εὐχάριτε,
 G. D. τοῖν, καὶ ταῖν, καὶ τοῖν εὐχαρίτοιν,
 Voc. ὦ εὐχάριτε.

Plural.

- Nom. οἱ καὶ αἱ εὐχάριτες, καὶ τὰ εὐχάρिता,
 Gen. τῶν εὐχαρίτων,
 Dat. τοῖς, καὶ ταῖς, καὶ τοῖς εὐχάρισι,
 Acc. τοὺς καὶ τὰς εὐχάριτας, καὶ τὰ εὐχάρिता,
 Voc. ὦ εὐχάριτες, and neut. εὐχάρिता. ✓

Thus also is declined the interrogative τίς, who, and τίς, indefinite, some one.

- Sing. Nom. ὁ καὶ ἡ τίς,¹ καὶ τὸ τί, who,
 Gen. τοῦ, καὶ τῆς, καὶ τοῦ τίνος,
 Dat. τῷ, καὶ τῇ, καὶ τῷ τίνι,
 Acc. τὸν καὶ τὴν τίνα, καὶ τὸ τί, &c. ✓

¹ Τίς, indefinite, has the accent on the last syllable in all the cases, if it be not enclitic.

NUMERALS.

Some Numerals are Cardinals, some Ordinals.

I. The Cardinals are, εἷς, one ; δύο, or δύω, two ; τρεῖς, three ; τέσσαρες, four ; which are thus declined :

	N.	G.	D.	A.
Masc.	εἷς,	ένος,	ένι,	ένα, one .
Fem.	μία,	μιᾶς,	μιᾷ,	μίαν, one .
Neut.	έν,	ένος,	ένι,	έν, one .

In the same manner are declined the compounds of εἷς, οὐδεῖς and μηδεῖς, no one, none ; οὐδεμία, μηδεμία, οὐδέν, μηδέν.

Δύο¹ and δύω, two, Gen. and Dat. δυοῖν, (δυεῖν the Attic genitive,) Dat. δυσὶ.

But δύο is observed to be of all genders, and all cases.

Plur. Nom. οἱ καὶ αἱ τρεῖς, καὶ τὰ τρία, three.

Gen. τῶν τριῶν

Dat. τοῖς, καὶ ταῖς, καὶ τοῖς τρισὶ

Acc. τοὺς καὶ τὰς τρεῖς, καὶ τὰ τρία.

Plur. Nom. οἱ καὶ αἱ τέσσαρες, καὶ τὰ τέσσαρα, four.

Gen. τῶν τεσσάρων

Dat. τοῖς, καὶ ταῖς, καὶ τοῖς τέσσαρσι

Acc. τοὺς καὶ τὰς τέσσαρας, καὶ τὰ τέσσαρα.

Numerals from four to a hundred are not declined ;
as,

πέντε five,
ἕξ six,
ἐπὶ seven,
ὀκτὼ eight,
ἐννέα nine,
δέκα ten,
ἐνδεκα eleven,
δωδεκα twelve,
τριακάδεκα thirteen,
τεσσαρακάδεκα fourteen, πεντεκάδεκα fifteen,
ἑκκάδεκα sixteen, &c.

εἴκοσι twenty,
εἴκοσι εἰς twenty-one,
εἴκοσι δύο twenty-two, &c.
τριάκοντα thirty.
τεσσαράκοντα forty,
πεντήκοντα fifty,
ἑξήκοντα sixty,
ἑβδομήκοντα seventy,
ὀγδοήκοντα eighty,
ἐννενήκοντα ninety,
ἑκατὸν a hundred.

Those which are multiples of a hundred are decli-nable ; as,

οἱ διακόσιοι, αἱ διακόσιαι, τὰ	χίλιοι a thousand ,
διακόσια, two hundred ,	δισχίλιοι two thousand ,
τριακόσιοι three hundred ,	τρισχίλιοι, τετρακισχίλιοι,
τεσσαρακόσιοι four hundred ,	πεντακισχίλιοι, &c.
πεντακόσιοι five hundred ,	μύριοι ten thousand ,
ἑξακόσιοι six hundred ,	δισμύριοι twenty thousand ,
ἑπτακόσιοι, ὀκτακόσιοι, ἐννεα-	τρισμύριοι thirty thousand ;
κόσιοι, &c.	and so on.

II. The Ordinals are those which answer to the interrogative πόσος, of what place, in what rank ; as, πρῶτος first ,	ἐννατος ninth ,

δεύτερος second ,	δέκατος tenth ,
τρίτος third ,	ἐνδέκατος eleventh ,
τέταρτος fourth ,	δωδέκατος twelfth ,
πέμπτος fifth ,	τρισκαιδέκατος thirteenth ,
ἕκτος sixth ,	τεσσαρακαιδέκατος,
ἑβδομος seventh ,	&c.
ὀγδοος eighth ,	εἰκοστὸς, twentieth .

εἰκοστὸς πρῶτος, εἰκοστὸς δεύ- διακοσιοστὸς two hundredth, τερσος, &c. τριακοσιοστὸς, &c.
 τριακοστὸς, τεσσαρακοστὸς, χιλιοστὸς thousandth, πεντηκοστὸς, ἑξήκοστὸς, ἑβ- δισχιλιοστὸς two thousandth, δομηκοστὸς, ὀγδοηκοστὸς, μυριοστὸς ten thousandth, ἑννενηκοστὸς, ἑκατοστὸς, δισμυριοστὸς twenty thou- hundredth. sandth, &c.

There are moreover nouns which are called dialia, expressive of a certain interval of days; as, τριταῖος tertian, τεταρταῖος quartan, &c. that is, breaking out, or doing something on the third day, the fourth, &c.

The Greeks express the numbers by these letters.

α'	1	ι'	10	ρ'	100	α	1000
β'	2	κ'	20	σ'	200	β	2000
γ'	3	λ'	30	τ'	300	γ	3000

η'	8	π'	80	ω'	800	ρ	100000
θ'	9	ζ'	90	πί	900	σ	200000

COMPARISON OF NOUNS.

Adjectives, which end in ος, form the comparative by changing s into τερος, and the superlative by changing s into τατος: as, ἔνδοξος, ἐνδοξότερος, ἐνδοξότατος.

Those which have the penultimate short, change o into ω in the comparative and superlative; as, φρόνιμος, φρονιμώτερος, φρονιμώτατος, prudent, more prudent, most prudent.

Except, κενός, κενότερος, κενότατος, empty; στενός, στενότερος, στενότατος, narrow.

Other Adjectives form the comparative and superlative by έστερος and έστατος· those which end in as by άντερος and άντατος· those which end in us often form them by *ίων*¹ and ιστος· as,

Positive, Comparative, Superlative.

In	ων.	σώφρων,	σωφρονέστερος,	σωφρονέστατος,	modest .
	as.	μέλας,	μελάντερος,	μελάντατος,	black .
	εις.	χαρίεις,	χαριέστερος,	χαριέστατος,	graceful .
	ης.	εύσεβής,	εύσεβέστερος,	εύσεβέστατος,	pious .
	ους.	άπλοῦς,	άπλούστερος,	άπλούστατος,	simple .
	us.	εύρὺς,	εύρύτερος & εύρίων,	εύρύτατος & εύριστος,	wide .
	αρ.	μάκαρ,	μακάρτερος,	μακάρτατος,	blessed .
	ην.	τέρην,	τερενέστερος,	τερενέστατος,	tender .

IRREGULAR COMPARISON.

Pos.	Comp.	Superl.
Κακός, bad ,	{ κακίων, and κακώτερος, }	κάκιστος, and κακώτατος.
_____	χείρων,	χείριστος.
_____	χερείων,
_____	χεριώτερος,
ἐλαχὺς, small ,	{ ἐλάσσω, and ἐλάττων, }	ἐλάχιστος.

¹ In the comparatives ending in ίων, the Ionians make the ι short, the Attics long.

Pos.	Comp.	Superl.
<hr/>	μείων, less ,	μείστος.
<hr/>	{ ἥσων, and } less ,	ἥκιστος.
	ἥττων,
βραδύς, slow ,	βράσσων,	βράδιστος.
μέγας, great ,	{ μείζων, and }	μέγιστος.
	{ μάσσων,
πλέος, and } full ,	{ πλέων, and }	πλείστος.
πλεῖος,	{ πλείων,

The Attics form many comparatives and superlatives by ίστερος and ίστατος· and some by έστερος and έστατος· and by αίτερος and αίτατος, from positives in ος ; as,

Δάλος, talkative ,	λαλίστερος,	λαλίστατος.
Αἰδοῖος, venerable ,	αἰδοιέστερος,	αἰδοιέστατος.
Ὀλίγος, few ,	ὀλιγίστερος,	{ ὀλιγίστατος, and ὀλιγίστος.
Ἴσος, equal ,	ισαίτερος,	ισαίτατος.
Φίλος, friendly ,	{ φιλαίτερος, and φίλτερος,	{ φιλαίτατος, φίλτατος, and φίλιππος.

From superlatives also are formed other comparatives and superlatives ; as, ελάχιστος, ελαχιστότερος, by much the least ; κυδίστος, κυδίστατος, by far the most glorious.

The following words also have comparatives and superlatives formed from them.

I. Substantives : as,

Ἔχθος ¹ , hatred ,	ἐχθίων,	ἐχθιστος.
Αἷσχος ¹ , disgrace ,	αἰσχίων,	αἷσχιστος.
Οἶκτος ¹ , pity ,	<hr/>	οἴκτιστος.
Κῦδος, glory ,	κυδίων,	κύδιστος.

¹ The comparatives and superlatives of these words are in fact derived from ἐχθρὸς, αἰσχροὺς, οἰκτρὸς ; but to avoid the harshness of sound, the letter ρ is omitted.

Κέρδος,	gain,	κερδίων,	κέρδιστος
Κάλλος,	beauty,	καλλίων,	καλλίστος.
Ἄλγος,	pain,	ἀλγίων,	ἄλγιστος.
Ὕψος,	height,	ὑψίτερος,	ὑψιστος.
Ἄρης,	Mars,	ἀρείων,	ἄριστος.
Κράτος,	strength,	—————	κράτιστος.
Βασιλεὺς,	a king,	βασιλεύτερος,	βασιλεύτατος.
Κρείων,	a king,	{ κρείσσω, or κρείττων, }	—————
Βέλος,	a dart,	{ βέλτερος, or βελτίων, }	βέλτιστος.

II. A Pronoun : as,

Αὐτὸς,	himself,	—————	αὐτότατος.
--------	-----------------	-------	------------

III. Verbs : as,

Ἰθῶ,	I wish,	{ λῴων, or λῴων, or λῴϊτερος, }	λῴστος.
Φέρω,	I carry,	φέρτερος,	φέρτατος, or φέριστος, or φέρτιστος.

IV. Adverbs : as,

Ἄνω,	above,	ἀνώτερος,	ἀνώτατος.
Μάλα,	very,	μᾶλλον,	μάλιστα.
Κάτω,	below,	κατώτερος,	κατώτατος.
Πόρρω,	afar,	πορρώτερος,	πορρώτατος.
Πέραν,	beyond,	περαίτερος,	περαίτατος.
Ἐξω,	on the outside,	ἐξώτερος,	ἐξώτατος.
Ῥεῖα,	easily,	ῥᾶων,	ῥᾶστος.
Ἐγγὺς,	near,	{ ἐγγύτερος, or ἐγγίων, }	{ ἐγγύτατος, or ἐγγιστος.

V. Prepositions: as,

Ἐπὲρ, above, ὑπέρτερος, ὑπέρτατος, by Syncope ὑπατος.
 Πρὸ, before, πρότερος, πρότατος, by Syncope πρόατος, by Crasis πρώτος, and, as if the superlative were doubled, πρώτιστος.

VI. Participles: as,

Ἐρρῶμένος, strong, ἐρρῶμενέστερος, ἐρρῶμενέστατος.

There are also some, to which no rule of analogy can be applied; as,

Ἀγαθός, } good, ἀμείνων, better. —
 Ἐσθλός, }

PRONOUNS.

The primitive Pronouns are, Ἐγὼ, I; σὺ, thou; οὐ, of himself.

Acc.	τὸν δέῖνα, τὴν δέῖνα, τὸ δέῖνα.

¹ The pronoun δέῖνα is not declined; therefore the Genitive and Dative cases are taken from the obsolete Nominative δεῖς.

THE VERB.

THERE are thirteen Conjugations; six of Gravitone, three of Contracted verbs, and four of verbs in $\mu\iota$.

They are called Gravitone, because they have the grave tone or accent on the last syllable, which is not marked, but understood, so that the accent expressed is placed upon the penultimate.

The conjugations of verbs are distinguished by certain characteristic letters, which are called figuratives, or indices.

The characteristic letter is that which immediately precedes ω , or $\omicron\mu\alpha\iota$: but in $\pi\tau$, $\kappa\tau$, $\mu\nu$, the first letter is the characteristic.

Characteristic Letters of the First Conjugation.

Pres.		Fut.		Pret.

Of the Sixth.

Any vowel, or diphthong, which immediately precedes ω, or ομαι as, τίω, Fut. τίσω, Pret. τέτικα, I honour.

In the Active and Middle Voices there are eight Tenses :

The Present,	First Aorist,
Imperfect,	Second Aorist,
Perfect,	First Future,
Pluperfect,	Second Future.

In the Passive Voice the Paulo-post-future is added.

MOODS.

There are five Moods, as in Latin :

The Indicative,	Subjunctive,
Imperative,	Infinitive.
Optative,

RULES.

When the first person plural ends in μεν, the first person dual is wanting.

When the third person plural ends in σι or ται, the third person dual is the same as the second.

THE INDICATIVE MOOD,

From which all the other Moods are derived.

Present Tense.

S.	τύπτω, τύπτεις, τύπτει	I strike.
D.	τύπτετον, τύπτετον
P.	τύπτομεν, τύπτετε, τύπτουσι.

Imperfect.

S.	ἔτυπον, ἔτυπες, ἔτυπε	I was striking.
D.	ἐτύπτετον, ἐτυπτέτην
P.	ἐτύπτομεν, ἐτύπτετε, ἔτυπον ¹ .

First Future.

S.	τύψω, τύψεις, τύψει ¹ .	I shall strike.
D.	τύψετον, τύψετον*
P.	τύψομεν, τύψετε, τύψουσι.

Pluperfect.

S.	ἐτετύφειν, ἐτετύφεις, ἐτετύφει*	I had struck.
D.	ἐτετύφειτον, ἐτετυφείτην*
P.	ἐτετύφειμεν, ἐτετύφειτε, ἐτετύφεισαν.

Second Aorist.

S.	ἔτυπον, ἔτυπες, ἔτυπε*	I struck.
D.	ἐτύπετον, ἐτυπέτην*
P.	ἐτύπομεν, ἐτύπετε, ἔτυπον.

Second Future.

S.	τυπῶ, τυπεῖς, τυπεῖ*	I shall strike.
D.	τυπεῖτον, τυπεῖτον*
P.	τυποῦμεν, τυπεῖτε, τυποῦσι.

IMPERATIVE MOOD.

Present and Imperfect.

- S. τύπτε, τυπτέτω· Strike.
 D. τύπτετον, τυπτέτων·
 P. τύπτετε, τυπτέτωσαν.

First Aorist.

- S. τύψον, τυψάτω· Strike thou.

¹ The Ionians add, σι to the third person singular; as τύπτῃσι for τύπτῃ.

² The long penultimate, in the dual and plural of this mood, is often made short; by the Ionic dialect, according to the writer of short Scholia on Homer, Il. B. 72, p. 178, Valckenaer's Edition: but Lesbonax in his treatise περὶ σχημάτων contends that it is a Corinthian figure.

FORMATION OF THE TENSES.

The Present is the Theme, or foundation of the rest ; as, τύπτω.

The Imperfect.

The Imperfect is formed from the Present, by changing ω into ον, and prefixing the augment ; as, τύπτω, ἔτυπτον.

The Augment.

There are two augments ; the syllabic, and the temporal.

The Syllabic Augment.

The syllabic augment is ε, when the verb begins with a consonant ; in which case ε is prefixed to the Imperfect, Pluperfect, and First and Second Aorists, in the Indicative mood ; but not in the other moods.

The Attics change ε, the syllabic augment, into the temporal η as, ἔμελλον, ἤμελλον, I was about to be.

To verbs which begin with α, η, ο, ω, οι, ον, the Attics prefix ε, with the breathing of the Theme, in those tenses which take the augment : as, ἔάλωκα, ἔηκα, ἔοργα, ἔωσα, ἔοικα, ἐούρηκα. They also resolve the temporal augment η into εα : as, ἔαξε for ἦξε.

The Poets prefix ε to the Aorists, whether they begin with a vowel, or a diphthong : as, ἔειπα, for εἶπα, I said.

If a verb begins with ρ, ρ is doubled after ε as, ῥίπτω, *ἔρριπτον*¹.

¹ Among the Poets ρ is often not doubled ; as, ῥεζον. Od. ψ, 56.

The Temporal Augment.

The temporal augment is used, when a verb begins with a changeable vowel, or a changeable diphthong; and it is used in the Perfect, and Pluperfect, throughout all the moods; in the Imperfect, and Aorists, only in the Indicative mood.

The changeable vowels are, α, ε, ο.

α is changed into η, as, ἀκούω, ἤκουον, I hear.

ε ————— into η, as, ἐγείρω, ἤγειρον, I excite.

ο ————— into ω, as, ὀρύττω, ὥρυττον, I dig.

The changeable diphthongs are, αι, αυ, οι.

αι is changed into η, as, αἶρω, ἤρον, I take away.

αυ ————— into ηυ, as, αὐξάνω, ἠύξανον, I increase.

οι ————— into ω, as, οἰκίζω, ὤκισον, I build.

But if a verb begins with an unchangeable vowel, or an unchangeable diphthong, the beginning of all the tenses will be the same.

The unchangeable vowels are long by nature; as,

η, ἡχέω, ἤχεον, I sound.

ι¹, ἰθύνω, ἴθυνον, I direct.

υ, ὑλίζω, ὕλισον, I strain.

ω, ὠθέω, ὤθεον, I thrust.

The unchangeable diphthongs are,

ει, εἰκάζω, εἵκαζον, I liken.

ευ, εὐθύνω, εὔθυνον, I direct.

ου, οὐτάζω, οὔταζον, I wound.

¹ The vowels ι and υ, if they are naturally short in the present tense, become long in the increased tenses; as, ἰκάνω, ἴκανον, ὑβρίζω, ὕβριζον. Therefore ι and υ take an augment, by changing the power, though not the form, of the letter.

By the Attic dialect, however, ει is changed into *η*¹ as, εἰκάζω, ἥκαζον, I liken; and ευ into ην as, εὐχόμεν, I pray; and εἶδω, I know, is made in the Pluperfect εἶδειν, and by the Attics ἦδειν, I had known.

Exceptions.

Four verbs, beginning with α, do not take η in the augmented tenses: as, ἄω, ἄον, I breathe; ἄϊω, ἄϊον, I hear; ἀηθέσσω, ἀήθεσσον, I am unaccustomed; *ἀηδίζομαι, ἀηδιζόμεν, I have an aversion*².

Some verbs, beginning with ε, take ι in the augmented tenses, as,

ἔχω, εἶχον, I have ;	ἔάω, I suffer ;
ἔλω, εἶλον, I take ;	ἔω, I clothe ;
ἔλκω, ἐλκύω, I draw ;	ἔω, I place ;
ἔρπω, ἐρπύζω, I creep ;	ἔρύω, I draw ;
ἑστήκω, I stand ;	ἑθίζω, I accustom ;
ἑπομαι, I follow ;	ἑργάζομαι, I work ;
ἑρέω, I say ;	ἑλίσσω, I roll ;
ἑστιάω, I entertain ;	ἑπώ, εἶπον, I tell .

This last verb keeps the augment in all the moods; ἔθω, I am accustomed, makes εἶωθα in the Perfect Middle, inserting ω.

E before ο is not changed, but ο is changed into *ω*³; as, ἐορτάζω, ἐώρταζον, I celebrate a festival.

Some verbs also beginning with οι, have no augment: as, οἰδάνω, οἶδανον, I swell; οἰκουρέω, I guard the house; οἰνόω, I make wine; οἰμάω, I rush on, &c.

¹ That is, the changeable part of the diphthong is changed, which only takes place in those diphthongs which are commonly called changeable.

² The old Attics did not change α, long by nature, into η in the augmented tenses; as, ἀνάλωω, ἀνάλωκα, Valckenaer on the Phœnissæ, v. 591.

³ So also, ἐολπὰ ἐώλπειν, ἔοργα ἐώργειν, ἔοικα, ἐφύκειν.

OF THE AUGMENTS OF COMPOUND VERBS.

Verbs have the Augment in the beginning, if they are compounded, either,

1. With a noun ; as, φιλοσοφῶ, ἐφιλοσόφουν, I philosophize.

2. With a preposition, which does not alter the sense of the verb ; as καθεύδω, ἐκάθευδον, I sleep : or if the simple verbs are not in use ; as, ἀντιβόλῳ, ἡντιβόλουν, I beseech ; ἐμμελῶ, ἡμμέλουν, I take care.

3. With ὁμῶς, or ὁμοῦ, and the privative particle α ; as, ἀφρονέω, ἡφρόνουν, I am unwise : ὁμολογέω, ὠμολόγουν, I confess.

The augment is placed in the middle, between the preposition and the verb, if the preposition changes the sense of the verb ; as, καταγίνωσκω, κατεγίνωσκον, I condemn.

The augment is placed in the middle, between the adverb and the verb, if it be compounded with δυσ and ευ· as, δυσαραεστέω, δυσηρέστουν, I displease : εὐεργετέω, εὐηργέτουν, I benefit : unless a consonant, or a changeable vowel, follow ; as, δυστυχέω, ἐδυστύχουν, I am unfortunate.

Some verbs take an augment both in the beginning and in the middle ; as, ἐνοχλέω, ἡνώχλουν, I disturb ; ἀνορθόω, ἡνώρθουν, I correct : and some either in the beginning or in the middle ; as, either ἀνέφξα, or ἡνοιξα, I opened.

Prepositions, which, in compound verbs, are put before vowels, lose their own vowel in all the tenses ; as, παρακούω, παρήκουον, I hear imperfectly.

Except περὶ and πρὸ, which never lose their vowel, and sometimes ἀμφὶ· but πρὸ is often contracted ; as, προέχω, προῦχω, *I precede*¹.

If the verb begins with an aspirated vowel, the preposition has its smooth mute changed into an aspirate; as, καθάπτομαι, I attain, from κατὰ and ἄπτομαι.

RULES.

The Ionians throw away the augment from the augmented tenses¹; as, τύπτε for *ἔτυπτε*².

First Future.

The First Future is formed from the Present, by changing the last syllable, in conjugation

The first, into ψω.

In the second, into ξω.

In the third, into σω.

In the fourth, by changing σσω, and ττω, into ξω, and in some verbs into σω: but *ζω*³ generally into σω.

In the fifth, by changing the last syllable into λω, μω, νω, ρω, and ω circumflexed.

In the sixth, into σω.

¹ The Ionians throw away also the reduplication, as, ἔδεκτο; and sometimes both the reduplication and the augment, as, δέκτο for ἐδέδεκτο.

² It was not allowable in the Attic language to throw away the augment. Porson in his Preface to the Hecuba. “Χρῆν as well as ἔχρην occurs in the Attic Drama, even among the writers of Comedy. The Attics always say, ἄνωγα, never ἤνωγα, but they reserve the augment for the Pluperfect tense. The same rule is observable in the words καθεζόμεν, καθήμην, καθεῦδον, to which the Tragic writers do not prefix the augment. The Comic writers either prefix or reject it, at pleasure.” Porson. Supplement to his Preface to the Hecuba, p. 17.

³ Some verbs in ζω have ξω as, οἰμῶζω, I bewail, οἰμῶξω: and some others have both σω and ξω as, ἄρπάζω, I seize, ἄρπάσω and ἄρπάξω: some also take γ before ξ as, λίζω, πλάζω, κλάζω, σαλπίζω fut. λίγξω, πλάγξω, &c.

RULES.

The penultimate of the first future is generally ¹ long, except in the fifth Conjugation, where it is always short, either by striking out the second consonant, as τέμνω, τεμῶ, I cut; or the second vowel of the diphthong, as φαίνω, φανῶ, I show; or by shortening the doubtful vowel, as κρίνω, κρίνῶ, I judge.

Some verbs transpose the breathing of the present tense; as, θρέψω from τρέφω, I nourish; θύψω, from τύφω, I raise a smoke; θρέξω from τρέχω, I run; and ἔξω from ἔχω, I have.

From futures of the fourth and sixth Conjugations in άσω, έσω, όσω, the Ionians take away s, and then the Attics contract the termination into ῶ circumflexed; as, σκεδάσω, σκεδάω, Ionic, σκεδῶ, Attic: so καλέσω, καλέω, καλῶ· ὁμόσω, ὁμόω, ὁμῶ: which keep the termination of circumflex verbs through all the persons. From futures of the fourth Conjugation in ίσω, the Attics take away s only, and place the circumflex accent on the ω· as κομίσω, κομιῶ.

In the present tense of the fourth Conjugation, the Dorians change ζω into σδω: as, κωμάσδω for κομάζω, I revel; and in the future, σω into ξω: as, βαδίζω, I go, βαδίσω, and in the Doric dialect, βαδίζω.

Futures in λῶ, and ρῶ, the Æolians lengthen so as to make them end in σω· as, κέλλω, I touch at a port; κελῶ, Æol. κέλσω· ὄρω, I excite, ὀρῶ, Æol. ὄρσω.

From the future of the sixth Conjugation, the Poets often throw away σ· as, δήω, I shall find, for δήσω, from δέω: κλείω, I shall shut, for κλείσω: and κέω, or κείω, I shall lie down, for κέσω, from κέω.

¹ Not always: for instance, ἀρκέσω, γελάσω, ὀνόσω, ἀνύσω, &c. But in futures of the fourth Conjugation, ending in σω, the penultimate, unless η or ω precede, is always short: as, θαυμάσω, πιέσω, φροντίσω, ἀρμόσω, ἐρπύσω, &c.

The Aorists.

The Aorists are tenses which convey a sense of uncertainty as to the time ; it being uncertain whether the action has passed a long time or a short time before.

The First Aorist is formed from the First Future by changing ω into α , and prefixing the augment ; as, $\tauύψω$, $ἔτνψα$.

Exceptions.

There are five first aorists, which do not take the characteristic letter of the first future ; as, $ἔθηκα$, I placed ; $ἔδωκα$, I gave ; $ἤκα$, I sent ; $εἶπα$, I told ; $ἤνεγκα$, I brought.

The penultimate of the first aorist is generally¹ long ; therefore in the fifth Conjugation α is changed into η as, $\psiαλῶ$, $ἔψηλα$, I sang ; and ϵ into $\epsilonι$ as, $σπερῶ$, $ἔσπειρα$, I sowed ; and a doubtful vowel is made long ; as, $κρῖνῶ$, $ἔκρῖνα$, I judged : but sometimes the long α is kept ; as, $ἐδυσχέρανα$, I was troubled ; $ἐκέρδανα$, I gained ; $επέρανα$, I completed.

From some first aorists σ is excluded ; as, instead of $ἔχευσα$, $ἔχευα$, $ἔχεα$, from $χέω$, I pour out ; $ἔσευσα$, $ἔσευα$, from $σεύω$, I stir ; $ἤλενα$ from $ἀλεύω$, I avoid ; and $ἡκεάμην$ from $ἀκέομαι$, I heal.

The Preterite Perfect.

The Preterite Perfect is formed from the First Future by changing, in conjugation

The first, $\psi\omega$ into $\phi\alpha$.

The second, $\xi\omega$ into $\chi\alpha$.

The third, $\sigma\omega$ into $\kappa\alpha$.

¹ Not always ; for instance, $ἐβάστασα$, $ἐτέλεσα$, $ἐγέμισα$, $ῶμοσα$, $ἔπτυσα$, &c.

The fourth, ξω¹ into χα, and σω into κα.

The fifth, ω into κα· but μω into μηκα².

The sixth, σω into κα.

And the first consonant of the present tense is repeated with ε, if the verb begins with a simple consonant, as, τύψω, τέτυφα· or with a mute followed by a liquid, as, πλέξω, πέπλεχα. But if it begin with a double consonant, or two consonants, ε only is prefixed: as, ζάω, I live, ἔζηκα· σπείρω, I sow, ἔσπαρκα.

When the verb begins with an aspirate, it takes the smooth mute corresponding; as, θύω, I sacrifice, τέθυκα. If it begins with ρ, ρ is doubled, and ε only is prefixed; as ῥίπτω, I hurl down, ἔρριψα.

Observations.

Verbs of two syllables³, of the fifth Conjugation, change ε of the future into α· as, στέλλω, στελεῶ, ἔσταλκα, I send.

Verbs of two syllables, in είνω, ίνω, ύνω, throw away ν of the future in the preterite; as, κτείνω, κτεινῶ, ἔκτακα, I slay; θύνω, θυνῶ, τέθυκα, I rush. The rest in νω change ν into γ· as φαίνω, I show, πέφαγκα· μολύνω, I defile, μεμόλυγκα.

Γρηγορέω, and γνωρίζω, only prefix ε, although they begin with a mute followed by a liquid: for ἐγρηγόρηκα and ἐγνώρικα are alone in use; so also ἔγνωκα.

Certain verbs beginning with πτ, κτ, μν, generally repeat the first letter of the present tense: as, πτόω, an obsolete verb, πέπτωκα, I fall; κτάομαι, κέκτημαι⁴, I possess; μνάομαι, μέμνημαι, I remember.

¹ Except πέφρικα, from φρίσσω, I shudder, not πέφριχα, in order that two adjoining syllables may not both begin with aspirates.

² Preterites in μηκα are in fact derived from verbs, almost out of use, ending in έω or άω.

³ But the ε of the future in μω is retained; as, νεμῶ, νενέμηκα.

⁴ But ἔκττημαι also is used.

The Attics prefix the two first letters of the present tense to verbs beginning with a short, ε or ο ; as, ἐρίζω, ἥρικα, ἐρήρικα, I contend : and the third syllable is made short, if the preterite exceeds three syllables ; as, ἀλήθω, ἥληκα, ἀλήλεκα, I grind. Except ἥρικα, ἐρήρικα, from ἐρείδω, I strengthen ; which has the third syllable long, to distinguish it from ἐρήρικα, the preterite of ἐρίζω, I contend.

If a verb begin with λ, or μ, the Attics prefix ει to the preterite ; as, λήβω, an obsolete verb, εἴληφα, I receive ; μείρομαι, εἴμαρμαι, I share.

In verbs of two syllables, in the first and second conjugation, the Attics change ε, the penultimate of the present tense, into ο : as, στρέφω, I turn, ἔστροφα· κλέπτω, I steal, κέκλοφα.

The Pluperfect.

The Pluperfect is formed from the Preterite, by changing a into ειν, and prefixing ε, if the preterite begins with a consonant : as τέτυφα, ἐτετύφειν.

The Attics sometimes add another temporal augment to the pluperfect : as, ὀρώρυχα, ὠωρούχουν.

The Second Aorist.

The Second Aorist is formed from the Present, by changing ω into ον, and prefixing the augment.

But the penultimate of this aorist is generally short ; therefore, if the penultimate of the present be long by position, the latter consonant, if it be not the characteristic letter, is thrown away ; as, τύπτω, ἔτυπον. If the latter consonant be the characteristic letter, it is kept ; as, τέρω, ἔταρον.

The vowels and diphthongs of the Present are thus changed in the penultimate of the Second Aorist:—ε, η, ω, αι, and αυ are changed into α: as, δέρω, ἔδαρον, I skin: except, ἔβλεπον, ἔλεγον, ἔφλεγον, ἔτεμον¹, ἔτεκον.—λήθω, ἔλαθον, I lie hid: except, ἔπληγον from πλήσσω, *I strike*².—τρώγω, ἔτραγον, I eat.—καίω, ἔκαον, I burn.—παύω, ἔπαον, I set at rest.

ευ is changed into υ; as, φεύγω, ἔφυγον, I fly.

ου into ο; as, ἀκούω, I hear, ἤκουον.

ει is changed into ι; as, λείπω, ἔλιπον: but in the fifth conjugation, it is changed, in verbs of two syllables, into α; as σπείρω, I sow, ἔσπαρον: in verbs of three syllables into ε; as, ὀφείλω, I owe, ὥφελον.

The vowels α, ι, υ, when long in the penultimate of the Present, are made short in the penultimate of the Second Aorist.

Observation.

It is to be observed, that if the First Future of the fourth conjugation ends in σω, the Second Aorist ends in δον: if the First Future ends in ξω, the Second Aorist ends in γον: as, φράζω, I tell, φράσω, ἔφραδον· τάττω, I set in order, τάξω, ἔταγον.

Some Second Aorists are formed irregularly; as,

β for π	{	βλάπτω,	ἔβλαβον ³ ,	I hurt .
		καλύπτω,	ἔκάλυβον,	I hide .
		κρύπτω,	ἔκρυβον,	I conceal .

² But ἔπλαγον and ἐπλάγην are used, when an emotion of the mind is signified.

³ All these take the β, φ, and γ, from the First Future, from which they are as regularly formed, as the others are from the Present. Thus, as before observed, ἔταγον from τάξω. But ἔφραδον comes regularly from the Present φράζω.—See the manner of resolving the double consonants at page 3.

φ for π	{	βάπτω,	ξβαφον ¹ ,	I stain. σκάπτω,	ξσκαφον,	I dig.
		ράπτω,	ξρράφον,	I stitch. θάπτω,	ξταφον,	I dig.
		δάπτω,	ξδαφον,	I devour.
		ἄπτω,	ἦφον,	I join.
		ρίπτω,	ξρρίφον,	I hurl. δρύπτω,	ξδρυφον,	I tear.
γ for χ	{	θήπω,	ξταφον,	I am amazed. σμύχω,	ξσμυγον ¹ ,	I burn.
		ψύχω,	ξψυγον,	I cool.

The Ionians, in certain tenses, and especially in the Second Aorist, make use of a reduplication: as, κέκαμον, I have laboured, for έκαμον: and πεπιθήσω, for πιθήσω, I shall confide. The Attics also prefix the two first letters of the present tense; as ἄγηγον for ἦγον, and, by a transposition of the augment, ἦγαγον.

Verbs of the sixth conjugation for the most part want the Second Aorist, the Second Future, and the Preterite Middle. Many other verbs also want these tenses.

The Second Future.

The Second Future is formed from the Second Aorist, by changing ον into ῶ circumflex, and throwing away the augment; as ἔτυπον, τυπῶ.

The rest of the Moods, together with their tenses, are formed from the Indicative, and like tenses from like.

PARADIGM OF THE PASSIVE VOICE.

INDICATIVE MOOD.

Present.

S.	τύπτομαι, ¹ τύπτη, ² τύπτεται.	I am struck.
D.	τυπτόμεθον, τύπτεσθον, τύπτεσθον.
P.	τυπτόμεθα, τύπτεσθε, τύπτονται.

Imperfect.

S.	ἐτυπτόμην, ἐτύπτου, ³ ἐτύπτετο.	I was in the habit of
D.	ἐτυπτόμεθον, ἐτύπτεσθον, -έσθην.	[being struck.]
P.	ἐτυπτόμεθα, ἐγύπτεσθε, ἐτύπτοντο.

Second Aorist.

S.	ἐτύπην, ἐτύπης, ἐτύπη.	I was struck.
D.	ἐτύπητον, ἐτυπήτην.
P.	ἐτύπημεν, ἐτύπητε, ἐτύπησαν.

¹ These four verbs, βούλομαι, ὕψομαι, οἶομαι, ἔομαι, and in the Attic dialect all verbs, form the second person in εἰ as, βούλει, ὕψει, οἶει, ἔει, and, by crasis, εἶ.

² Among the old Greeks, the second person was τύπτεσαι, as in τίθεμαι, τίθεσαι, and so in the rest, from the first person in μαι, the second was in σαι. The Ionians took away s, and then the Attics contracted εαι and ηαι into η.

³ Among the ancients, the second person was in εσο. The Ionians took away σ, and then the Attics contracted εο into ου. So from the first person in ἀμην, the second was άσο, which the Ionians made αο, and the Attics ω.

Second Future.

- S. τυπήσομαι, τυπήσῃ, τυπήσεται· I shall be struck.
 D. τυπησόμεθον, τυπήσεσθον, τυπήσεσθον·
 P. τυπησόμεθα, τυπήσεσθε, τυπήσονται.

Perfect.

- S. τέτυμμαι, τέτυψαι,¹ τέτυπται· I have been struck.
 D. τετύμμεθον, τέτυφθον, τέτυφθον·
 P. τετύμμεθα, τέτυφθε, τετυμμένοι εισι.

Pluperfect.

- S. ἐτετύμμην, ἐτέτυψο, ἐτέτυπτο· I had been struck.
 D. ἐτετύμμεθον, ἐτέτυφθον, ἐτετύφθην·
 P. ἐτετύμμεθα, ἐτέτυφθε, τετυμμένοι ἦσαν.

Paulo-post-Future.

- S. τετύψομαι, τετύψῃ, τετύψεται· I shall be struck di- D. τετυψόμεθον, τετύψεσθον, -εσθον· [rectly.]
 P. τετυψόμεθα, τετύψεσθε, τετύψονται.

¹ The second person singular of the Perfect is formed from the first, by changing the consonants preceding αι into the characteristic letter of the first future active; as, τέτυμμαι, τέτυψαι, from τύψω: but only μ after a liquid of the present tense, as, τέτερμαι, τέτερψαι: also after γ, as ἤλεγμαi, ἤλεξαi. In the fifth conjugation μ is always changed into σ, as ἔσπαρμαι, ἔσπαρσαι.

The third person singular is formed from the second, by changing ς into τ: as, ἔσπαρσαι, ἔσπαρται· τέτυψαι, τέτυπται· λέλεξαι, λέλεκται. But if the first person ends in σμαι, the third person retains ς before the termination ται: as τετέλεσμαι, τετέλεσαι, τετέλεσται· πέφρασμαι, πέφρασαι, πέφρασται.

The second and third dual, and the second plural, are formed from the third singular, by changing the smooth mutes into the corresponding aspirates; as, τέτυπται, τέτυφθον, τέτυφθε: also by taking ς before θ pure; as, κέκριται, κέκρισθον.

First Aorist.

- S. ἐτύφθην, ἐτύφθης, ἐτύφθη· I was struck.
 D. ἐτύφθητον, ἐτυφθήτην·
 P. ἐτύφθημεν, ἐτύφθητε, ἐτύφθησαν.

First Future.

- S. τυφθήσομαι, τυφθήσῃ, τυφθήσεται· I shall be struck.
 D. τυφθησόμεθον, τυφθήσεσθον, -εσθον·
 P. τυφθησόμεθα, τυφθήσεσθε, -ονται.

IMPERATIVE MOOD.

Present and Imperfect.

- S. τύπτου¹, τυπτέσθω· Be thou struck.
 D. τύπτεσθον, τυπτέσθων·
 P. τύπτεσθε, τυπτέσθωσαν.

Perfect and Pluperfect.

- S. τέτυψο, τετύφθω· Thou shouldst have been struck.
 D. τέτυφθον, τετύφθων·
 P. τέτυφθε, τετύφθωσαν.

First Aorist.

- S. τύφθητι, τυφθήτω· Be thou struck.
 D. τύφθητον, τυφθήτων·
 P. τύφθητε, τυφθήτωσαν.

¹ Among the ancients the Imperative was τύπτεσο. Here, therefore, the same occurs as in the second person of the Imperfect Indicative. See p. 66.

Second Aorist.

- S. τύπηθι, τυπήτω· Be thou struck.
 D. τύπητον; τυπήτων·
 P. τύπητε, τυπήτωσαν.

OPTATIVE MOOD.

Present and Imperfect, εἴθε.

 D. τετυμμένω εἶητον, εἶήτην· [been struck.
 P. τετυμμένοι εἶμεν, εἶητε, εἶσαν.

First Aorist.

- S. τυφθείην, τυφθείης, τυφθείη· I may have been
 D. τυφθείητον, τυφθείήτην· [struck.
 P. τυφθείμεν, τυφθείητε, τυφθείησαν.

Second Aorist.

- S. τυπείην, τυπείης, τυπείη· I may have been struck.
 D. τυπείητον, τυπείήτην·
 P. τυπείμεν, τυπείητε, τυπείησαν.

First Future.

- S. τυφθησοίμην, τυφθήσοιο, τυφθήσοιτο· I may be struck.
 D. τυφθησοίμεθον, τυφθήσοισθον, -σοίσθην·
 P. τυφθησοίμεθα, τυφθήσοισθε, τυφθήσωτο.

Second Future.

- S. τυπησοίμην, τυπήσοιο, τυπήσοιτο· I may be struck.
 D. τυπησοίμεθον, τυπήσοισθον, -σοίσθην·
 P. τυπησοίμεθα, τυπήσοισθε, τυπήσονται.

Paulo-post-Future.

- S. τετυψοίμην, τετύψοιο, τετύψοιτο· I may be instantly
 D. τετυψοίμεθον, τετύψοισθον, -ψοίσθην· [struck.]
 P. τετυψοίμεθα, τετύψοισθε, τετύψονται.

SUBJUNCTIVE MOOD.

Present and Imperfect, ἐὰν.

- S. τύπτωμαι, τύπτῃ, τύπτηται· I should be struck.

The Formation of the Tenses in the PASSIVE VOICE.

There are nine Tenses in the Passive Voice, three of which are derived from the Active ; namely, the Present, Preterite, and Second Aorist.

Present.

The Present is formed from the Present Active, by changing ω into $\sigma\mu\alpha\iota$ as, $\acute{\tau}\upsilon\pi\tau\omega$, $\acute{\tau}\upsilon\pi\tau\sigma\mu\alpha\iota$.

Imperfect.

The Imperfect is formed from the Present by changing $\mu\alpha\iota$ into $\mu\eta\nu$, and prefixing the augment ; as $\acute{\tau}\upsilon\pi\tau\sigma\mu\alpha\iota$, $\epsilon\tau\upsilon\pi\tau\acute{o}\mu\eta\nu$.

Second Aorist.

The Second Aorist is formed from the Second Aorist Active, by changing $\sigma\upsilon$ into $\eta\nu$ as, $\epsilon\tau\upsilon\pi\sigma\upsilon$, $\epsilon\tau\acute{\upsilon}\pi\eta\nu$.

Second Future.

The Second Future is formed from the third person singular of the Second Aorist, by adding $\sigma\sigma\mu\alpha\iota$, and throwing away the augment ; as, $\epsilon\tau\acute{\upsilon}\pi\eta$, $\tau\upsilon\pi\acute{\eta}\sigma\sigma\mu\alpha\iota$.

Preterite-perfect.

The Preterite-perfect is formed from the Preterite Active, by changing, in Conjugation

The first, $\phi\alpha$ pure into $\mu\mu\alpha\iota$, with the μ doubled ; as, $\acute{\tau}\epsilon\tau\upsilon\phi\alpha$, $\acute{\tau}\epsilon\tau\upsilon\mu\mu\alpha\iota$ $\phi\alpha$ impure into $\mu\alpha\iota$ as, $\acute{\tau}\epsilon\tau\epsilon\rho\phi\alpha$, $\acute{\tau}\epsilon\tau\epsilon\rho\mu\alpha\iota$.

The second, $\chi\alpha$, into $\gamma\mu\alpha\iota$ as, $\lambda\acute{\epsilon}\lambda\epsilon\chi\alpha$, $\lambda\acute{\epsilon}\lambda\epsilon\gamma\mu\alpha\iota$.

The third, $\kappa\alpha$ into $\sigma\mu\alpha\iota$ as, $\acute{\pi}\acute{\epsilon}\pi\epsilon\iota\kappa\alpha$, $\acute{\pi}\acute{\epsilon}\pi\epsilon\iota\sigma\mu\alpha\iota$.

The fourth, { $\chi\alpha$ into $\gamma\mu\alpha\iota$ as, $\acute{\tau}\epsilon\tau\alpha\chi\alpha$, $\acute{\tau}\epsilon\tau\alpha\gamma\mu\alpha\iota$.
 { $\kappa\alpha$ into $\sigma\mu\alpha\iota$ as, $\acute{\pi}\acute{\epsilon}\phi\rho\alpha\kappa\alpha$, $\acute{\pi}\acute{\epsilon}\phi\rho\alpha\sigma\mu\alpha\iota$.

The fifth, $\kappa\alpha$ into $\mu\alpha\iota$ as, $\acute{\epsilon}\psi\alpha\lambda\kappa\alpha$, $\acute{\epsilon}\psi\alpha\lambda\mu\alpha\iota$ but $\acute{\pi}\acute{\epsilon}\phi\alpha\gamma\kappa\alpha$, $\acute{\pi}\acute{\epsilon}\phi\alpha\mu\mu\alpha\iota$.

The sixth, $\kappa\alpha$ into { $\sigma\mu\alpha\iota$, if the penultimate of the preterite active be short; as,
 $\tau\epsilon\tau\acute{\epsilon}\lambda\epsilon\kappa\alpha$, $\tau\epsilon\tau\acute{\epsilon}\lambda\epsilon\sigma\mu\alpha\iota$.
 { $\mu\alpha\iota$, if the penultimate of the preterite active be long; as,
 $\pi\epsilon\pi\omicron\iota\eta\kappa\alpha$, $\pi\epsilon\pi\omicron\iota\eta\mu\alpha\iota$.

The following are excepted,

Ἦκουσμαι , from $\acute{\alpha}\kappa\omicron\upsilon\omega$, I hear ;	Κέκλεισμαι , from $\kappa\lambda\epsilon\acute{\iota}\omega$, I shut ;
Κέκρουσμαι , from $\kappa\rho\omicron\upsilon\omega$, I beat ;	Σέσεισμαι , from $\sigma\epsilon\acute{\iota}\omega$, I shake ;
Ἐπταισμαι , from $\pi\tau\alpha\acute{\iota}\omega$, I dash against ;	Ἐγνωςμαι , from $\gamma\nu\acute{o}\omega$, I know ;
Κεκέλευσμαι , from $\kappa\epsilon\lambda\epsilon\acute{\upsilon}\omega$, I command ;	Τέθραυσμαι , from $\theta\rho\alpha\acute{\upsilon}\omega$, I break, &c.

Certain verbs also are excepted, which, although the penultimate of the preterite active be short, do not admit σ ; as ἤρομαι , I have been ploughed, from ἤροκα , I have ploughed ; ἤλαμαι , I have been agitated, from ἤλακα , I have agitated ; and some others.

The Attics make the preterite passive of verbs in $\nu\omega$ to terminate in $\sigma\mu\alpha\iota$ as, $\mu\iota\alpha\acute{\iota}\nu\omega$, I defile, $\mu\epsilon\mu\acute{\iota}\alpha\sigma\mu\alpha\iota$ $\phi\alpha\acute{\iota}\nu\omega$, I show, $\acute{\pi}\acute{\epsilon}\phi\alpha\sigma\mu\alpha\iota$.

In the penultimate of the preterite passive, some verbs throw away the ϵ from $\epsilon\nu$, the penultimate of the preterite active; as $\acute{\pi}\acute{\epsilon}\phi\epsilon\nu\chi\alpha$, $\acute{\pi}\acute{\epsilon}\phi\nu\gamma\mu\alpha\iota$ $\acute{\tau}\acute{\epsilon}\tau\epsilon\nu\chi\alpha$, $\acute{\tau}\acute{\epsilon}\tau\nu\gamma\mu\alpha\iota$. So $\acute{\epsilon}\sigma\sigma\upsilon\mu\alpha\iota$, $\acute{\kappa}\acute{\epsilon}\chi\upsilon\mu\alpha\iota$, $\acute{\pi}\acute{\epsilon}\pi\nu\sigma\mu\alpha\iota$.

Those which have $\rho\epsilon$ so combined with a consonant, that one syllable is made of them, change ϵ into α as, στρέφω, ἔστρεφα, ἔστραμμαι, I turn: except βέβρεγμαι, from βρέχω, I moisten.

Pluperfect.

The Pluperfect is formed from the Perfect, by changing μαι into μην, and prefixing ε, if the verb begins with a consonant; as τέτυμμαι, ἐτετύμμην.

When the third person singular of the Perfect or Pluperfect ends in ται or το impure, the third person plural is made by circumlocution with the participle and εἰσι: as, τέτυπται, τετυμμένοι εἰσι.

But when ται or το is pure, the third person plural is formed from the third singular by adding ν before ται or το: as, κέκριται, κέκρινται, πεποίηται, πεποίηνται. And sometimes the circumlocution by the Participle and εἰμι does not take place in the Optative and Subjunctive Moods; as, ἐκταίμην, -αῖο, -αῖτο, Optat. and ἔκτωμαι, -η, -ηται, Subjunct. from κτείνω, I kill: especially in contracted verbs; as, πεποιήμην, -ῆο, -ῆτο, κεκλήμην, -ῆο, -ῆτο, with iota under-written.

The Ionians form the third person plural from the third singular, in certain tenses, by inserting α before ται or το: as, ἔψαλται, ἐψάλαται.¹ But if a smooth mute goes before, it is changed into the corresponding aspirate; and σ into θ, and sometimes into δ: as, τέτυπται, τετύφαται, πέπεισται, πεπείθεται, ἐσκεύασται, ἐσκενάδαται. If a long vowel or diphthong goes before, it is generally made short; as, κεκόσμηται, κεκοσμέαται, they have been adorned: τέθειται, τεθέαται, they have been placed.

¹ Attic writers also use this third person plural in αται and ατο. Æschylus, Sophocles, Euripides, Aristophanes, in various passages.

Paulo-post-Future.

The Paulo-post-Future is formed from the second person of the Perfect, by changing αι into ομαι as, τέτυψαι, τετύψομαι.

First Aorist.

The First Aorist is formed from the third person singular of the Perfect, by changing αι into ην, the smooth mutes into aspirates, and taking away the letter of reduplication ; as, τέτυπται, ἐτύφθην.

Exceptions.

These words are excepted, { ἐμνήσθην from μέμνηται, I remembered, { which { ἐρρώσθην from ῥρῶται, I was strengthened, { take σ.
 { ἐσώθην from σέσωσται, I was preserved, which [throws away σ.

Those verbs, which in the Perfect had changed ε into α, take again ε in the First Aorist ; as, ἔστραμμαι, ἐστρέφθην and those which had thrown away ν, take it again in this tense, as used by the Poets ; as, ἐκλίνθην, for ἐκλίθην, I incline.

First Future.

The First Future is formed from the third person singular of the First Aorist, by adding σομαι, and taking away the augment ; as, ἐτύφθη, τυφθήσομαι.

The rest of the Moods are formed from the Indicative, and like tenses from like.

THE MIDDLE VOICE.

The Middle voice is so called, because it has a middle inflexion, and a middle signification, partly passive, partly active.

1. Of middle verbs, some are merely deponent, and have an active signification, without any active voice; as, δέχομαι, I receive, δέξομαι, I shall receive, ἐδεξάμην, I received.

2. Some are neuter, and have a passive signification with an inflexion partly passive, and partly active; as, τήκομαι, τέτηκα, I have pined away; σήπομαι, σέσηπα, I have become putrid; μαίνομαι, μέμνηνα, I was mad.

3. Some have a truly middle sense, and may be called reciprocals; as, λούομαι, I wash myself, or I am washed by myself; where the action is reflected upon the agent.

4. There are some, which, though they have an active voice in use, yet have an active sense in the middle voice; especially in the First Aorist and First Future.

The Formation of the Tenses in the MIDDLE VOICE.

The Present is the same as the Present Passive.

The Imperfect is the same as the Imperfect Passive.

Second Aorist.

The Second Aorist is formed from the Second Aorist Active, by changing ον into ομην· as, ἔτυπον, ἐτυπόμην.

Second Future.

The Second Future is formed from the Second Future Active, by changing ῶ into οῦμαι· as, τυπῶ, τυποῦμαι.

Sing. τυποῦμαι, τυπή, τυπέιται·

Dual. τυπούμεθον, τυπέισθον, τυπέισθον·

Plur. τυπούμεθα, τυπέισθε, τυπῶνται.

Except πίομαι, I shall drink; ἔδομαι, I shall eat; φάγομαι, I shall eat, φάγεσαι, φάγεται· and those poetic words, βέομαι, I shall go; νέομαι, by Crasis νεῦμαι, I shall go.

First Future.

The First Future is formed from the First Future Active, by changing ω into ομαι· as, τύψω, τύψομαι. But in the fifth conjugation, into οῦμαι· as, ψαλῶ, ψαλοῦμαι. The Attics make the termination οῦμαι in the fourth and sixth conjugation also; as, κομιῶ, κομιοῦμαι· ὀμῶ, ὀμοῦμαι. Sometimes they use the same termination in the other conjugations; as, φευξοῦμαι from φεύγω. The Dorians invariably in all.

The First Aorist.

The First Aorist is formed from the First Aorist Active, by adding μην· as, ἔτυψα, ἐτυψάμην·

Sing. ἐτυψάμην, ἐτύψω, ἐτύφατο·

Dual. ἐτυψάμεθον, ἐτύψασθον, ἐτυψάσθην·

Plur. ἐτυψάμεθα, ἐτύψασθε, ἐτύφαυτο.

Imperative.

Sing.	τύψαι, τυψάσθω·
Dual.	τύψασθον, τυψάσθων·
Plur.	τύψασθε, τυψάσθωσαν.

Optative.

Sing.	τυφαίμην, τύψαιο, τύψαιτο·
Dual.	τυφαίμεθον, τυφαίσθον, τυφαίσθην·
Plur.	τυφαίμεθα, τύψαισθε, τύψαιντο.

The Preterite Middle.

The Preterite Middle is formed from the Preterite Active, by taking the characteristic letter of the Second Aorist for its own ;¹ as, τέτυφα, τέτυπα· or from the Second Aorist,² by changing ον into α, and prefixing the reduplication, if the verb begins with a simple consonant, or with a mute joined to a liquid ; as, ἔτυπον, τέτυπα.

RULES.

The penultimate of the Preterite Middle is generally the same as the penultimate of the Preterite Active :

But in the penultimate of the Preterite Middle ει of the Present Active is changed into οι, αι into η, and α into η :

as,	πειθω, πέποιθα, I persuade. φαίνω, πέφηνα, I show. θάλλω, τέθηλα, I sprout.

¹ Except δέιδω, δέδοικα, I fear : where the characteristic of the Preterite Active is kept in the Preterite Middle.

² Preterites Middle have not always the short penultimate of the second Aorists : many retain, from the Present, the long penultimate ; as, βέβριθα, τέτριγα, ἔρριγα, μέμῃκα, πέπρᾱγα, κέκεῦθα· η, ω, and ευ of the Present generally remain in the penultimate of the Preterite Middle.

But a is sometimes kept; as, ἔψαλα, I have sung.

Words of two syllables, which have ε in the penultimate of the First Future, change ε into ο in the penultimate of the Preterite Middle; as, λέγω, λέξω, λέλογα, I say; and σπείρω, σπερῶ, ἔσπορα, I sow.

When χ, or φ, is the characteristic of the Present tense, the Preterite Active and the Preterite Middle are the same.

Pluperfect Middle.

The Pluperfect Middle is formed from the Preterite, by changing a into ειν, and prefixing ε, if the Preterite begins with a consonant; as, τέτυπα, ἐτετύπειν, as in the Active Voice.¹

CIRCUMFLEX, OR CONTRACTED VERBS.

Circumflex Verbs are so called, because they have the circumflex accent on the last syllable of the Present tense.

They are derived from verbs of the sixth conjugation in έω, άω, όω: whence there are three conjugations of circumflex verbs.

The first in έω ,	} Future {	} Preterite {
The second in άω ,			in {	in {
The third in όω ,
	ήσω	ηκα
	ήσω	ηκα
	ώσω	ωκα

¹ Among the old Greeks the Pluperfect was thus inflected:

	Ionic.		Attic.
ἤδεα, I had known ,	—	ἤδη by contraction,	—
ἤδεες, — —	—	ἤδεις,	—
ἤδεε, — —	—	ἤδει, and, with ν added, ἤδειν, and ἤδη.	—

Exceptions in the First Conjugation.

Some verbs of the first conjugation make the Future both in ἦσω and ἔσω, and the Preterite both in ἤκα and ἐκα, with η and ε as, καλέω, I call; αἰνέω, I praise; κορέω, I satiate, &c.

Some also retain ε only, the penultimate of the present; as, τελέω, I perfect; ἀρκέω, I keep off, &c.

Verbs of two syllables in έω form the Future in εύσω for instance, χέω, I pour; ρέω, I flow; πνέω, I blow; πλέω, I sail.¹ The following are excepted, δέω, δήσω, I bind; τρέω, τρέσω, I tremble; and ζέω, ζέσω, I boil.

Exceptions in the Second Conjugation.

Verbs which have ε or ι before άω; as, έάω, I permit; κοπιάω, I labour; ² also verbs of three syllables, which have λ or ρ³ before αω, provided that a vowel, and not a consonant, go immediately before; as, περάω, I pass; γελάω, I laugh; and verbs of two syllables, which have λ or ρ⁴ before άω as, θλάω, I beat; κλάω, I break; δράω, I do; make the Future in άσω, and the Preterite in ακα.

Exceptions in the Third Conjugation.

Verbs in όω, which are not derived from a noun, form the Future by ο as, άρώω, I plough, άρόσω όνόω, I blame, όνόσω.

¹ But these Futures are more properly derived from the Present tenses in εύω, which are almost out of use.

² So θεάομαι, I behold, θεάσομαι.

³ Also μ, ν: as, κρεμάω, κρεμάσω· πεινάω, πεινάσω.

⁴ Also π, θ: as, σπάω, σπάσω· φθάω, φθάσω· πάομαι also makes πάσομαι.

Observations.

The Present and Imperfect only are contracted. In the other tenses they follow the form of verbs of the sixth conjugation.

In verbs of two syllables of the first conjugation, the first person singular, and also the first and third plural, are not contracted; as, πλέω, πλέομεν, πλέουσι, not πλω, πλοῦμεν, πλοῦσι. So neither is the contraction used in the optatives or the subjunctives.

In verbs of two syllables of the second conjugation all the persons are contracted.

The simple and uncontracted form of these verbs is most in use among the Ionians; the Attics, and nearly all the rest of the Greeks, more commonly use the contracted form.

Circumflex verbs have, for the most part, no Second Aorist, Second Future, or Preterite Middle.

Exceptions.

But those which end in ω impure after the contraction, in the first and second conjugation, have the Second Aorist, Second Future, and Preterite Middle; as, δονπέω, δονπῶ, ἔδονπον, δονπῶ, δέδουπα, I sound; μυκάω, μυκῶ, ἔμυκον, μυκῶ, μέμυκα, I low.

The Manner of Contracting.

1. In the first conjugation, εε is contracted into ει, and εο into ου.

If a long vowel, or a diphthong, follows ε, the contraction is made by taking away ε.

2. In the second conjugation, if ο, or ω, or οι, or ου, follows α, the contraction is made in ω.

If any other vowel, or diphthong, follows α, the contraction is made in α.

The Dorians contract άεις into ῆς, άει into ῆ, and άειν into ῆν· as, όράεις όρῆς, όράει όρῆ, όράειν όρῆν. The Attics too do the same in these four verbs, ζῶ, ζῆς, ζῆ, ζῆν, I live; πεινῶ, νῆς, νῆ, I am hungry; διψῶ, ῆς, ῆ, I am thirsty; χρῶμαι, χρῆ, χρήται, χρήσθαι, I use.

The Æolians change, in the infinitive, άν into αῖς· as, γελαῖς for γελάν.

The Poets, in this second conjugation, after the contraction in ω, prefix ο· as, καρηκομῶντες, καρηκομῶντες, from καρηκομάω, I have my head covered with thick hair; ¹ and sometimes they double α· as, τιμάασθαι for τιμᾶσθαι.²

3. In the third conjugation, if ω, or η,³ follows ο, the contraction is made in ῶ.

If ε or ου, or ο, follows ο, the contraction is made in ου.

If any other diphthong follows ο, the contraction is made in οι, except in the Infinitive Mood, which is contracted into οὖν· as, χρυσόειν, χρυσοὖν.

¹ The Poets use the same way of contracting in nouns also; as, φάος, light, by crasis φῶς, and in poetic language φῶως.

² If the syllable, which precedes the inserted α, be long, the inserted α is also long; as, μενοῖνᾶα: if short, it is short; as, ἰσχᾶνᾶα.

³ That is, the vowel η; for if it be the diphthong η, the contraction is made in οι.

VERBS in μι.

There are four conjugations of verbs in μι, which are derived from verbs of the sixth conjugation¹ ending in έω	} as, from	θέω,	τίθημι,	I put. άω		στάω,	ἵστημι,	I place.

όω		δόω,	δίδωμι,	I give.
ύω		ζευγνύω,	ζεύγνυμι,	I join. ²

They are made Verbs in μι,

1. By changing ω, the last syllable, into μι.
2. By changing the vowel of the penultimate, if it be changeable, into the corresponding long one; and,
3. By prefixing the reduplication; as, θέω, τίθημι.

The reduplication is twofold;

1. Proper, when the first consonant of the present tense is repeated with ι as, δόω, δίδωμι but the smooth mute is put for the aspirate; as, θέω, τίθημι.

2. Improper, when only ι aspirated is prefixed; and this occurs, either when the verb begins with στ as, στάω, ἵστημι or with πτ as, πτάω, ἵπτημι or when the verb begins with a vowel; as, έω, ἴημι.

The Æolians change η into ε, and double μ as, τίθεμμι, for τίθημι. The Boeotians change η into ει, and make the reduplication with ε as, πεφίλειμι.

In the fourth conjugation there is no reduplication, but only ω is changed into μι.

¹ The Poets derive them from other verbs; as, φέρημι, βρίθηνι, δίξηνι, &c. from φέρω, βρίθω, δίξω.

² The verbs, from which the fourth conjugation is derived, are commonly also themselves derived from other verbs, by inserting νυ or ννυ as, from ἄγω, ἄγνύω, ἄγνυμι ὁμῶ, ὁμῶ, ὁμνύω, ὕμνυμι στορέω, στορεννύω, στορέννυμι &c. So also ζευγνύω is originally derived from ζεύγω.

The Ionians, however, use the reduplication in the fourth conjugation; as, κέκλυθι, for κλῦθι, hear.

In some verbs, instead of the reduplication, the two first letters of the present tense are repeated; as, ἀλάλημι from ἀλάω, an obsolete word; ἀκάχημι from ἀχέω.

Many others also have no reduplication; as, φημι, βῆμι, γνῶμι, ἄλωμι, σβῆμι, &c.

Verbs in μι have no other tenses than the Present, Imperfect, and Second Aorist.

Many verbs of the fourth conjugation are not declined beyond the Imperfect.¹ They have also no Optative nor Subjunctive Mood.

FORMATION OF THE TENSES.

Of the Present we have spoken already.

Imperfect.

The Imperfect is formed from the Present, by changing μ into ν , and prefixing the augment; as, τίθημι, ἐτίθην.

Second Aorist.

The Second Aorist is formed from the Present, by changing μ into ν , throwing away the reduplication, and prefixing the augment; as, τίθημι, ἔθην· ἴστημι, ἔστην.

If a verb does not admit the reduplication, the Imperfect and Second Aorist are the same.

II. PASSIVE VOICE.

The Present is formed from the Present Active, by changing μ into $\mu\alpha\iota$, and resuming the short vowel in the penultimate; as, τίθημι, τίθεται· except ἄημαι, δίζημαι, with perhaps a few others.

ἐζεύγνυμην,	ν	ύ	ύ	ύ	ύ

¹ By the Attics, τίθη, ἵσθη. So κάθη, δύνη.

² The following Tenses taken from verbs in ω are anomalous : 1. The Preterite, τέθειμαι. 2. ἔσταμαι. 3. δέδομαι. From these the Pluperfect and Paulo-post-Future are formed regularly. 1. First Aorist, ἐτέθην. 2. ἔσθην. 3. ἔσθην. From these the First Future is formed regularly.

VERBAL NOUNS.

All Verbal Nouns are usually derived, by rejecting the reduplication or the augment, and changing the termination ;

I. From the first person of the Preterite Passive in {	μα,	as, γράμμα,	a letter.

{	μη,	as, γραμμή,	a line.
{	μος,	as, δεσμός,	a chain.
{	μων,	as, νοήμων,	intelligent.

II. From the second person of the Preterite Passive in {	ια,	as, δοκιμασία,	proof.

{	ις,	as, ποίησις,	poetry.
{	Adjectives in σιος, as, θαυμάσιος, wonderful ; and in σιμος, as, χρήσιμος, useful.

III. From the third person of the Preterite Passive are derived

1. Masculines in

{	τηρ,	as, χαρακτήρ,	character.
{	της,	as, ποιητής,	a poet.
{	τικός,	as, κριτικός,	judicial.
{	τος,	as, ἀκουστός,	audible.

The following are Passive Impersonals, ἐνδέχεται, it is possible ; εἴμαρται or εἴμαρται, and πέπρωται, it is fated.

DEFECTIVE VERBS.

Defective Verbs are those which are only conjugated in the usual way as far as the Imperfect ; and if they have any tenses besides, they borrow them from other verbs, the Present of which is not in use.

Such are gravitone verbs in βω, of which the penultimate either ends in ε only, or has in it an immutable vowel ; as σέβω, στίλβω, ῥέμβω, φέρβω.

Gravitones in άνω, as λαμβάνω, μανθάνω.

Those which end in σκω, preceded by any vowel, as, γινώσκω.

Those which end in άθω, as κιάθω· in έθω, as τελέθω· in ύθω, as, μινύθω· in θω, combined with a consonant, as, ἄχθω, ἔσθω.

Words of more than two syllables in είνω, as, φαείνω, ἀλεείνω, ἑρεείνω.

Also those which have two consonants before ω , one of which is a liquid, as $\delta\acute{\alpha}\kappa\nu\omega$.

Those which end in ω pure, the diphthong υ preceding, as, $\acute{\alpha}\gamma\nu\acute{\iota}\omega$, $\delta\pi\nu\acute{\iota}\omega$.

Those which end in $\delta\omega$, if ν or λ go before, as, $\sigma\pi\acute{\epsilon}\nu\delta\omega$, $\mu\acute{\epsilon}\lambda\delta\omega$.

Those also which end in $\acute{\alpha}\iota\omega$, as, $\kappa\epsilon\delta\acute{\alpha}\iota\omega$,—and in $\acute{\epsilon}\iota\omega$, derived from the Present tense, or Future; as, from $\tau\epsilon\lambda\acute{\epsilon}\omega$, $\tau\epsilon\lambda\acute{\epsilon}\iota\omega$, $\acute{\epsilon}\tau\acute{\epsilon}\lambda\epsilon\iota\omicron\nu$, I perfect; $\gamma\alpha\mu\acute{\epsilon}\omega$, I marry, $\gamma\alpha\mu\acute{\eta}\sigma\omega$, $\gamma\alpha\mu\eta\sigma\acute{\epsilon}\iota\omega$, I desire to marry; $\beta\rho\acute{\omicron}\omega$, I eat, $\beta\rho\acute{\omega}\sigma\omega$, $\beta\rho\omega\sigma\acute{\epsilon}\iota\omega$, I desire to eat; $\delta\pi\tau\omega$, I see, $\delta\psi\omega$, $\delta\psi\acute{\epsilon}\iota\omega$, I desire to see; $\pi\omicron\lambda\epsilon\mu\acute{\epsilon}\omega$, I wage war, $\pi\omicron\lambda\epsilon\mu\acute{\eta}\sigma\omega$, I shall wage war, $\pi\omicron\lambda\epsilon\mu\eta\sigma\acute{\epsilon}\iota\omega$, I wish to wage war.

So also those which, from having been contracted, the Attics have made uncontracted; as, $\alpha\upsilon\lambda\acute{\epsilon}\omega$, $\alpha\upsilon\lambda\acute{\omega}$, $\alpha\upsilon\lambda\omega$, $\eta\upsilon\lambda\omicron\nu$ · $\acute{\alpha}\lambda\epsilon\acute{\xi}\acute{\epsilon}\omega$, $\acute{\alpha}\lambda\epsilon\acute{\xi}\acute{\omega}$, $\acute{\alpha}\lambda\acute{\epsilon}\acute{\xi}\omega$ · $\acute{\epsilon}\psi\acute{\epsilon}\omega$, $\acute{\epsilon}\psi\acute{\omega}$, $\acute{\epsilon}\psi\omega$ · and these borrow the other tenses from the circumflexed verbs from which they arise, as, $\alpha\upsilon\lambda\acute{\eta}\sigma\omega$, $\acute{\alpha}\lambda\epsilon\acute{\xi}\acute{\eta}\sigma\omega$, $\acute{\epsilon}\psi\acute{\eta}\sigma\omega$.

In like manner those which on account of some consonant inserted have changed ϵ into ι · as, $\mu\acute{\epsilon}\nu\omega$, $\mu\acute{\iota}\mu\eta\omega$, $\acute{\epsilon}\mu\iota\mu\eta\omicron\nu$ · $\tau\acute{\epsilon}\kappa\omega$, $\tau\acute{\iota}\kappa\tau\omega$ · $\acute{\epsilon}\nu\acute{\epsilon}\pi\omega$, $\acute{\epsilon}\nu\acute{\iota}\sigma\pi\omega$ · $\gamma\acute{\epsilon}\nu\omicron\mu\alpha\iota$, $\gamma\acute{\iota}\gamma\eta\mu\omicron\mu\alpha\iota$ · but $\acute{\epsilon}\pi\omega$, $\acute{\epsilon}\sigma\pi\omega$ · $\acute{\epsilon}\pi\omicron\mu\alpha\iota$, $\acute{\epsilon}\sigma\pi\omicron\mu\alpha\iota$, do not change ϵ · now and then, however, they lose it, as, $\sigma\pi\acute{\epsilon}\tau\epsilon$ for $\acute{\epsilon}\sigma\pi\epsilon\tau\epsilon$, $\sigma\pi\acute{\epsilon}\sigma\theta\alpha\iota$ for $\acute{\epsilon}\sigma\pi\epsilon\sigma\theta\alpha\iota$, $\sigma\pi\acute{\omicron}\mu\epsilon\nu\omicron\varsigma$ for $\acute{\epsilon}\sigma\pi\acute{\omicron}\mu\epsilon\nu\omicron\varsigma$.

There are many also, which have only one tense; as, $\omicron\acute{\iota}\sigma\omega$, I shall carry, &c.

ANOMALOUS VERBS.

Anomalous verbs are those which are not conjugated regularly, like the rest, but borrow from other verbs certain of their tenses.

Ω.

Ῥιπτόω, I thrust, fut. ῥίψω, aor. 1. ῥῖσα and ῥῖθησα, pret. p. ῥῖσμαι.

ADVERB.

An Adverb is either primary, as, νῦν, now, τότε, then; or derived, ending in στὶ, as, Ἑλληνιστὶ, in the Greek language, Ῥωμαϊστὶ, in the Latin language; also ending in δὸν, as κυνηδὸν, like a dog; in ην, as, κρύβδην, secretly; in εἰ, as, πανσυδεῖ, with all vigour, strenuously; and in ᾶξ, as, ὀδᾶξ, with the teeth.

From the genitive plural of the noun adjective is derived the Adverb in ως as from τῶν ἀληθῶν, ἀληθῶς, truly; from τῶν ὀξέων, ὀξέως, sharply.

Moreover δε, σε, ζε, added to the end of words, give the sense of motion to a place; θεν, and θε, from a place; θι, σι, χοῦ, χῆ, in a place; as, οὐρανόνδε, to Heaven; ἐκείσε, thither; ἔραζε, to the ground; οὐρανόθε, from Heaven; πάντοθι, πανταχοῦ, πανταχῇ, everywhere, anywhere.

Ἄρι, ἐρι, ἀγα, βρι, δα, ζα, βου, λα, λι, when prefixed to other words, increase their signification; as, δῆλος, manifest, ἀρίδηλος, or ἐρίδηλος, very manifest; *νη*¹ and νε in composition have a negative or privative sense; as, νήπιος, an infant; νέπους, without feet.

*Εὖ*² in composition gives the sense of excellence or praise; as, εὐειδής, beautiful; εὖοσμος, sweet-smelling; or, of ease; as, εὐκίνητος, easily moved; or, of happiness; as, εὐγαμος, happy in marriage.

Δύς in composition is the opposite to all these significations; as, δυσειδής, deformed; δύσοσμος, ill-smelling; δυσκίνητος, difficult to be moved; δύσγαμος, unhappy in marriage.

¹ Sometimes also, but very rarely, they increase the sense; as, νήδυμος, very sweet; νήχυντος, widely flowing.

² Sometimes also it diminishes the sense of the Compound; as, εὐωπος, negligent; εὐτελής, cheap.

*Αλφα in composition gives the sense of privation, union, and increase; as, χάρις, thanks, ἄχαρις, ungrateful; πάντες, all, ἅπαντες, all together; ξύλον, wood, ἄξυλος, full of timber.

Adjectives in the neuter gender are often used as adverbs.

Interjections seem to be reckoned amongst adverbs.

CONJUNCTION.

Conjunctions are adversative, as, καίπερ, ει καί, καὶν, καὶν εἰ, although.

Causal; as, γὰρ, καὶ γὰρ, ἢ γὰρ, γάρτοι, γάρπου, γὰρ δῆπου, for; οὐ γὰρ ἀλλὰ, for not; ὅτι, διὸ, διότι, καθότι, οὐνεκα (a poetic term), because; ἐπεὶ, after that; ἵνα, ὥς, ὅπως, ὅφρα (a poetic word), ὥστε, that.

Copulative; καὶ and τε, and; ἡδὲ, and ἰδὲ (a poetic word), and; καὶ μέντοι, and yet; καὶ μὴν καί, moreover; καὶ τοι καί, and what is more; καὶ γὰρ αὖ, again too.

Connexive, or conditional; εἰ with its compounds, εἰ, ἂν, ἢν, if; περ, εἰδὴ, εἰδήπερ, since; ἐπείπερ, ἐπειδὴ, ἐπειδήπερ, ἐπειοῦν, ἐπειὴ, if, since, when; εἰ δ' ἄρα, but if.

Distinctive; μὲν, indeed; δὲ, but; γε, ἀτὰρ, ἀλλὰ, at least, but; μέντοι, but truly; μέντοι πον, μέντοι γε, yet certainly; δέγε, δέπου, δέτοι, but; δὲ, δῆ, but now.

Disjunctive ; ἢ, ἢτοι, ἢπου, or, either, or whether.

Dubitative ; ἄρα, whether? μῶν, whether in any respect?

Rational, or illative ; οὖν, ἄρα, οὐκοῦν, τοιδὲ, τοίγαρτοι, τοίγαροῦν, τοίνυν, καὶ, δὲ, τοῦνεκα (a poetic expression), *wherefore, therefore, on that account, for this reason ; οὐκουν,*¹ therefore not.

Responsive ; ὅμως, δὴπου, γεδήπου, ἔμπης, *yet ; ἀλλὰ γὰρ, ἀλλὰ δὲ, ἀλλὰ μὲν, ἀλλ' οὖν, but, but yet, however, but then ;*² καίτοι, καίτοιγε, however, but, although.

Potential ; ἂν, κε or κεν.

Expletive ; which, however redundant they may appear, have yet each of them their own force and sense, though it may be often difficult to determine it ; as, ῥα, κεν, νυ, που, τοι, περ, πω, &c.

¹ In οὐκοῦν, therefore, the οὖν prevails ; in οὐκουν, therefore not, the οὐ prevails, and consequently takes the accent. Hoogeveen.

² Ἀλλὰ γε οὖν, but certainly at least ; ἀλλὰ δὲ καὶ, moreover also.

SYNTAX.

I. VERB.

A Verb agrees with the nominative case in number and person: as,

Πολλάκι τοι καὶ μωρὸς ἀνὴρ κατακαίριον εἶπε·
Even a foolish man has often spoken to the purpose.

Exceptions.

Neuter nouns in the plural number are generally joined to a verb singular: as,

Τῷ ἀργυρίῳ ὑποτάσσεται πάντα·
All things are subservient to money.

Sometimes also masculine and feminine nouns: as,

Οὐκ ἔστιν, οἷτινες ἀπέχονται·
There are none who abstain.

And also feminines; as,

Ἰ' Ἀχεῖται ὀμφαὶ μελέων·
The notes of melody resound.

Every dual noun is necessarily plural; and therefore a nominative dual may be joined to a verb plural: as,

Ἄμφω ἔλεγον·
Both said.

But on the contrary, every plural is not dual.

II. THE ADJECTIVE.

The Adjective agrees with the Substantive in case, gender, and number: as,

Χρηστὸς ἀνὴρ ἐστὶ κοινὸν ἀγαθόν.
A good man is a general blessing.

A Substantive, however, in the dual number may be joined to an adjective in the plural: as,

Φίλας περὶ χεῖρε βάλωμεν.
We may throw our beloved hands around him.

Observations.

Adjectives compounded, or derived from other words, and ending in os, are generally considered to be of the common gender: as,

Ἐφάνη ῥοδοδάκτυλος Ἥως.
The rosy-fingered Aurora appeared.

And some others, not compounded: as,

Παντοίων στομάτων λόλον εἰκόνα.
A loquacious image of all sorts of voices.

Adjectives often change their substantive into a genitive: as, instead of φαῦλοι ἄνθρωποι, φαῦλοι τῶν ἀνθρώπων wicked men.

Μάγος τέχνη· magic art:
 Τὴν Ἑλλάδα φωνὴν ἐξέμαθον.
I learnt the Greek language.

III. RELATIVE.

The Relative agrees with the Antecedent in gender, number, and person : as,

Χάριν οἶδα τῆς τιμῆς, ἣ μὲ τιμᾶτε·

I return you thanks for the honour which you show me.

The relative and antecedent are put by the Attics in the same case : as,

Χρῶμαι βιβλίους, οἷς ἔχω·

I use the books which I have.

The antecedent also is put by the Attics in the same case, and in the same member of the sentence, as the relative : as,

Οὗτός ἐστιν, ὃν λέγεις ἄνθρωπον·

This is the man, of whom you speak.

Μετὰ δ' ἔσσεται, ἣν τότε ἀπηύρων Κούρην Βρισηὺς·

And amongst them shall be Briseïs, whom I then took away.

THE CONSTRUCTION OF THE SUBSTANTIVE.

The genitive case is often used by the figure eclipsis in proper names : as,

Νηλεὺς, ὁ Κόδρου (νιὸς understood).

Neleus, the son of Codrus.

Εἰς ᾗδον, τὸ τοῦ οἴκου (οἶκον understood).

And also where the word ἐνεκα seems to be understood : as,

Μακάριος τῆς πίστεως·

Blessed on account of his faith.

A genitive, put by itself, sometimes expresses detestation : as,

Τῆς ἀναιδείας·
O the impudence !

And sometimes also praise : as,

Χρηστοῦ κ' οἰκτίρμονος ἀνδρός·
O good and merciful man !

ADJECTIVES.

Adjectives in the neuter gender are often used for adverbs : as,

Ὅξυν, quickly.
 Καλὰ, beautifully.
 Τὰ πρῶτα, at first.
 Τὰ ἀρχαῖα, formerly.
 Μέτρια, moderately.
 Ἀλυπώτατα, most joyfully.

Sometimes also adjectives in the masculine : as,

Ἰθὺς, straight on ; ἐὺθὺς, immediately.

And feminines : as, ἰδίᾳ, privately ; δημοσίᾳ, publicly.

1. The Genitive Case after the Adjective.

Adjectives which signify desire, knowledge, ignorance, plenty, want, dignity, difference, condemnation, &c., take a genitive case after them : as,

Δύσερως τῆς δόξης·
Unhappily fond of glory.
 Ἀπειρος τῶν πράξεων·
Unskilled in affairs.

RULES.

Nouns partitive and indefinite interrogatives and numerals, also nouns of the comparative and superlative degree, take a genitive case: as,

Ἐκαστον τῶν ζώων·

Each of the animals.

Adjectives of the comparative degree, when they may be resolved by quàm, take a genitive after them: as,

Τῆς πολυπραγμοσύνης οὐδὲν κενεώτερον ἄλλο·

Nothing is vainer than curiosity.

Nouns also, which have the nature of superlatives, and nouns compounded of a privative, are generally followed by a genitive case: as,

Ἐξοχος πάντων, chief of all.

Δῖα Θεάων, Goddess of Goddesses.

Ἀθέατος τῆς ἀληθείας, he who does not see the truth.

Ἀχαλκος ἀσπίδων, without brazen shields.

2. The Dative Case after Adjectives.

Adjectives, by which advantage or disadvantage, likeness or unlikeness, contrariety, &c. are signified, govern a dative case: as,

Φίλος σοὶ, friendly to you.

Ἐναντίος τῷ νόμῳ, contrary to the law.

To this rule are referred adjectives compounded of σὺν and ὁμοῦ: as,

Σύντροφος, sharing the same table.

Ὁμόγλωσσος, speaking the same language.

Some adjectives, signifying likeness, take also a genitive case:

Ὁμοιος ἀνθρώπου, like a man.

3. The Accusative Case after Adjectives.

Adjectives, if the word κατὰ is understood, take the accusative case after them: as,

Ἡατρίδα ῥωμαῖος, by birth a Roman.

Οὐδεὶς ἀνθρώπων αὐτὸς ἅπαντα σοφός·

No man is wise in all things.

Some nouns are put in the accusative, κατὰ being understood, and are taken as adverbs or prepositions: as,

Τέλος, finally ;

Χάρις, for the sake of ;

Ἀρχήν, in the first place, or altogether ;

Δίκεν, like.

Pronoun Possessive.

A possessive pronoun is sometimes used instead of the primitive: as,

Εἰς ἐμὴν ἀνάμνησιν· in memory of me.

Σὸς πόθος· regret of thee.

The genitive case of the adjective or participle following, often agrees with the genitive of the pronoun understood in the possessive: as,

Τύχας ἐμὰς τλήμονος· the misfortunes of me wretched.

THE CONSTRUCTION OF ACTIVE VERBS.

The Nominative after the Verb.

Verbs substantive, as, τυγχάνω, εἰμὶ, ὑπάρχω, γίγνομαι, and the poetic words, πέλω, πέλομαι, τελέθω, κύρω, (I am;) also passive verbs expressive of being called, and verbs denoting behaviour, require the same case after them as before them: as,

Ὁ πλοῦτός ἐστι παρακάλυμμα τῶν κακῶν·

Wealth is the cloak of evil.

A nominative also is put after other verbs: as,

Σύννοια σοφὸς ὢν·

I am conscious that I am wise.

First Observation.

After the verb τυγχάνω the participle ὢν is elegantly placed, together with another nominative: as,

Σωκράτης τυγχάνει ὢν σοφός· Socrates is wise.

But if a participle follows, ὢν is left out: as,

Σωκράτης τυγχάνει περιπατῶν· Socrates is walking.¹

Second Observation.

The nominative case after the verb is changed into a genitive: as,

Κροῖσός ἐστι τῶν πλουσίων· i. e. πλούσιος· Cræsus is rich.

The Genitive Case after the Verb.

Verbs which signify to abstain, to accuse, to admire, to love, to covet, to attain, to dèspise, to desist, to differ, to need, to buy, to excel, to enjoy, to command, to fill, to begin, to spare, to partake, to deprive, to remember, to sell, to revere, generally take an accusative case: as,

Τοῦ ζῆν ἀπὸ λύπης ἀρχόμεθα·

We begin life with sorrow.

Τί βαιὸν ἐντρέπη σῆς συμμάχου;²

Why do you so little respect your ally?

¹ To this rule belong the expressions, ἔχω θαυμάσας, I have wondered at; λαμβάνω ποιήσας, I have done secretly, &c.

² Among the Greeks (;) was the sign of interrogation.

Verbs expressive of the senses take a genitive after them:¹ as,

Αἰσθάνομαι ψόφου·

I hear a noise.

Except those which relate to sight, which govern an accusative: as,

Ὁρᾷ φάος ἡελίου· he sees the light of the sun.

Verbs also which signify to hear sometimes govern an accusative:² as,

Ἀμείλικτον δ' ὅπ' ἄκουσαν·

They heard no soothing voice.

The genitive used in an absolute sense is put after any verbs whatever: as,

Ἐμοῦ διδάσκοντος· I being teacher:

and, in the Attic dialect, the accusative is used in the same manner: as,

Ἐξον, πάρον, δέον, δόξαν.

Thus, δέον ποιεῖν· it being right to do.

The Dative after the Verb.

Verbs implying acquisition, also those which signify to contend, to converse, to suit, to give, to reproach, to rejoice, to assist, to beseech, to reprove, to follow, and to use, require a dative: as,

Ἐπομαι τοῖς παλαιοῖς· I follow the ancients.

Any verb also admits a dative, signifying the cause, or instrument, or manner of an action: as,

Ἀργυρέαις λόγχαισι μάχου, καὶ πάντα κρατήσεις·

Fight with silver spears, and you will conquer every thing.

¹ But in the Attic dialect verbs expressive of the senses take an accusative after them: as, ἀκούσατε ψηφίσματα· hear the decrees.

² And sometimes, but very rarely, a dative: as,

————— δύνασαι δὲ σὺ πάντοσ' ἀκούειν

Ἀνέρι κηδομένῳ· and you may hear on all sides the afflicted man.

The dative is frequently used, governed by σὺν understood: as,

Ὁρעυνόμενος ἑπτακοσίοις ὀπλίταις·

Going forth with seven hundred heavy-armed men.

But especially before the pronoun αὐτός· as,

Τῇλ' αὐτῇ πῆληκι κάρη βάλε·

He struck off the head with the helmet itself.

The Accusative after the Verb.

Active verbs, and those which have the sense of active verbs, are followed by an accusative: as,

Νεκρὸν ἱατρεύειν, καὶ γέροντα νοουθετεῖν, τ' αὐτ' ἐστι·

To apply remedies to a dead man, and to instruct an old one, is the same thing.

Verbs which signify to give, to take away, to advise, to ask, to teach, to do and speak well or ill, take a double accusative: as,

Βούλει σὲ γεύσω πρῶτον ἄκρατον μέθυ;

Do you wish that I should first give you to taste unmixed wine?

Ἦποστέρει με τὰ χρήματα· he took away from me my property.

Ἐπεισα ταῦτα τὴν Βουλὴν· I persuaded the Senate of these things.

Μέλλετε δ' αἰτεῖν τοὺς Θεοὺς τὰγαθά·

Ye are going to ask blessings of the Gods.

Ἀπαντὰ σε διδάξομαι· I will teach you all things.

Τὸν βασιλέα δρᾶν τοῦτο· to do this to the king.

Εἰπεῖν σε κακά· to speak evil concerning thee.¹

The following words admit a variety of construction: as,

Ἐπιλείπει μοι, καί με, τόδε· this is wanting to me.

¹ But before an accusative expressing a thing, and not a person, κατὰ is understood.

"Αρχει τῆς πόλεως, καὶ τῇ πόλει· he rules the city.

Λοιδορῶ σοι, καὶ σε· I reproach you.

Προσκυνῶ τῷ Θεῷ, καὶ τὸν Θεόν· I worship God.

With many others of the same kind.

Any verb admits an accusative of the noun which has the same signification : as,

Χαίρω χαράν· I rejoice with joy.

Λέγω λόγον· I hold a discourse.

Γάμους γαμῶ· I enter on matrimony.

And many of the same kind.

THE CONSTRUCTION OF PASSIVE VERBS.

Passive verbs require a genitive with the prepositions ὑπὸ, ἀπὸ, παρὰ, and πρὸς· as,

Ὁ νοῦς ὑπὸ οἴνου διαφθείρεται·
The intellect is destroyed by wine.

Or without a preposition : as,

Τῶν φίλων νικώμενος·
Overcome by friends.

And this genitive is sometimes changed into a dative : as,

Πεποιήταί μοι· it was done by me.

The Poets often separate the prepositions by the figure tmesis : as,

Κατὰ γαῖα κάλυψε, for γαῖα κατεκάλυψε· the earth entirely covered.

RULES.

Passive verbs are joined to an accusative by Synecdoche : as,

Πλήττομαι τὴν κεφαλὴν· I am struck on the head.

An accusative may anywhere be used, either after verbs, or nouns, if you suppose κατὰ to be understood.

Many active verbs have both a passive signification, and a passive construction : as,

Ἀπαλλάττω ὑπό σου· I am liberated by you :

Thus, Τελῶ, I am assessed ;

Ἀναλαμβάνω, I am refreshed ;

Ἀναγνάμπω, I am turned back ;

Ῥίπτω, I am tossed ;

Συνάπτω, I am joined together ;

Ἀσκῶ, I am exercised ;

Κρύπτω, I am concealed.

On the contrary, certain passive verbs have an active sense, especially in the preter-perfect tense : as,

Δέδεγμαι, I have received ; ἔργασμαι, I have performed ; πεποίημαι, I have made ; πέφυγμαι, I have fled.

A preposition, with its accent thrown back, is often put for a compound verb : as,

Ἐνι for ἔνεστι· ἄνα for ἀνάστα.

IMPERSONAL VERBS.

Impersonal verbs require,

I. A Dative of the person,¹ with a genitive of the thing,² δέι, δέιται (it is necessary), ἐνδεῖ, προσδεῖ, διαφέρει, μέλει, μεταμέλει, μέτεστι· as,

Δεῖ σοι φίλων· you have need of friends.

II. A Dative of the person, ἀπόχρη, διαφέρει, δοκεῖ, ἐνδέχεται, ἔξεστι, καθήκει, προσήκει, μέλει, μεταμέλει, πρέπει, συμβαίνει· an infinitive often following: as,

Δοκεῖ μοι δρᾶν ταῦτα· it seems good to me to do these things.

III. An accusative of the person followed by an infinitive,³ δεῖ (it behoves), ἐνδέχεται, ἔξεστι, πρέπει, προσήκει, χρῆ (it behoves), as,

Χρῆ σε ποιεῖν· it behoves you to do.

GERUNDS AND SUPINES.

Instead of Gerunds and Supines, the Greeks use the infinitive either with an article, or without an article: as,

Λέγειν ἀγαθός· skilled in speaking:

Καιρὸς τοῦ βοηθεῖν· the opportunity for giving assistance.

² Although only a genitive of the thing be expressed, yet a dative of the person is understood.

³ The impersonal verb, however, seems here to be put absolutely, and the infinitive to depend upon the accusative, by the usual ellipsis of the conjunction.

Ἐν τῷ σπουδάξειν in endeavouring :

Πρὸς τὸ παρακαλεῖν to exhort :

Ποιεῖν αἰσχρόν shameful to be done.

The Infinitive seems very often to be put instead of the imperative, by an omission of a verb: as,

Ἀλὲν ἀριστεύειν, καὶ ὑπεύροχον ἔμμεναι ἄλλων

Always distinguish yourself, and be pre-eminent above others. Χρὴ, it behoves, or ὄρα, take care, is here understood.

A nominative case is elegantly joined to an infinitive mood: as,

Πείσω εἶναι δεσπότης I will convince you that I am master.

Ἦ Ελεγον, πρὸς τὸ φαίνεσθαι ἀγαθοί they spoke, that they might appear brave.

When necessity is signified, the Greeks use verbal adjectives, which govern a dative when the sense of the verbal is passive, and an accusative, when it is active: as,

Ἰτέον μοι I must go.

Οὐ σθένει νικητέον γυναῖκας one must not overcome women by force.

Or another case depending on the verbs from which they are derived: as,

Μνημονευτέον Θεοῦ we must think of God.

These Adjectives are used either in the singular, or plural number: as,

Νέοις ζηλωτέον¹ (or by the Attics ζηλωτέα) τοὺς γέροντας

Young men ought to imitate the old.

Sometimes the dative itself is changed into another accusative: as,

Μετάστασιν δεικτέον εἰσφέροντας, ἐξιόντας

We must show a change both in paying tribute, and in going forth (to battle).

¹ So in Latin, Æternas quoniam pœnas in morte timendum. Lucan.

Verbal substantives also govern the cases of their own verbs : as,

Τῶν σὼν Ἡρακλεῖ δωρημάτων·

On account of your gifts to Hercules.

Ἐγκλήματα τῷ Θεῷ·

Accusations against God.

PARTICIPLES.

Participles govern the cases of their verbs : as,

Ὀλιγορῶν τῆς παιδείας· despising instruction.

Participles are used instead of nouns : as,

Τόξων εὖ εἰδώς, for εἰδήμων· skilled in the use of the bow.

Sometimes participles are used instead of the infinitive mood, but this generally occurs in verbs which signify to continue or to cease ; as,

Ἀγαπῶν με διατέλει· continue to love me.

Οὐ παύσομαι γράφων· I will not cease writing.

Μέμνημαι ἰδών· I remember to have seen.

OF THE PREPOSITIVE ARTICLE.

The prepositive article is used,

I. In explaining : as,

Ὁ Κύριος ἸΗΣΟΥΣ· the Lord Jesus.

II. In pointing out clearly : as,

Ὁ ποιητής· that is, the chief poet, or Homer.

If the article is put before an infinitive mood, it is used for a noun in every case : as

Τὸ φρονεῖν, wisdom :

Τοῦ φρονεῖν, of wisdom.

Ἐν τῷ φρονεῖν, in wisdom.

The adverb also with the article is considered as an adjective, some word being understood : as,

Τὰ ἔξω, things external :

Οἱ πέλας, those who are near :

Τῷ πλησίον, to one who is near.

That is, τὰ πράγματα ὄντα ἔξω· οἱ ἄνθρωποι ὄντες πέλας· τῷ ἀνθρώπῳ ὄντι πλησίον.

The article, with περὶ, ἀμφὶ, μετὰ, κατὰ, and the like, or with a proper name, gives the same sense as the proper name itself, or it expresses the attendants on any person : as,

Οἱ περὶ ἱερά· the priests.

Οἱ ἀμφὶ Πλάτωνα· Plato, or the Platonics.

Οἱ μετ' Ἀχιλλέως· the companions of Achilles.

Οἱ κατ' ἀγοράν· pleaders.

In this case certain participles seem to be understood : as,

Οἱ περὶ ἱερά (σπονδάζοντες)·

Those who are occupied in the sacred rites ; that is, the priests.

The prepositive article is put for the relative : as,

Τὸ ῥᾶστον πάντων, for ὃ ῥᾶστον· which is most easy to be done.

And the contrary : as,

Ἦ δ' ὅς· but he said.

The article with a substantive in the genitive case signifies possession : as,

Τὰ μητρός· the property of a mother ; χρήματα understood.

Τὰ Πλάτωνος· the works of Plato ; ἔργα understood.

The article with an adjective is put for a substantive : as,

Τὸ τραχὺ, for τραχύτης, roughness.

Sometimes an adjective, even without an article, is used in the same manner: as,

Φιλότιμον, for φιλοτιμία, ambition.

So τὸ σὸν, for σὺ, thou;

Ἑμέτερον, for ὑμεῖς, ye;

Τὸ Θεῖον, for Θεός, God.

The article with the conjunctions μὲν and δέ, is used in making distinctions: as,

Οἱ μὲν καλοὶ, οἱ δὲ κακοί.

Some good, and others bad.

It is also used as an adverb: as,

Τῇ μὲν, τῇ δέ, partly; μοίρα, or some such word, understood.

The article in the neuter gender is put before any words whatever, to show that that very word is meant: as,

Τὸ ἄνθρωπος· that is, the word ἄνθρωπος· τὸ γυνή, the word γυνή· ἔπος, word, understood.

Of Time.

Nouns which signify a portion of time, are generally used in the genitive, sometimes in the dative, and accusative: as,

Νυκτὸς καὶ ἡμέρας· night and day:

Εἴκοσιν ὅλοις ἔτεσιν· twenty whole years:

Ὅλην ἡμέραν· a whole day.

Of Place.

In denoting places, the Greeks most frequently use the proper name of the place with a preposition: as,

Ἐξ Ἀθηνῶν· from Athens:

Εἰς Βριταννίαν· to Britain.

Sometimes they use adverbs,

I. In θι and σι, to denote being in a place : as,

Οὐρανόθι, in heaven :

Ἀθήνησι, in Athens.

II. In χοῦ and χῆ· as,

Πανταχοῦ, everywhere :

Πανταχῆ, anywhere.

III. In δε, σε, and ζε, to denote motion towards a place : as,

Οἴκαδε, towards home :

Οὐρανόσε, to Heaven :

Ἀθήναζε, to Athens.

Δε also is added to the accusative both of substantives and adjectives : as,

Ὅνδε δόμονδε· to his house :

and to the genitive, by Eclipsis ; as,

Ἀΐδοσδε κατῆλθον· they went down to the regions below.

IV. In θεν,¹ and θε, to denote motion from a place : as,

Οἴκοθεν, from home :

Εὐβολήθε κατήεις· you were gone from Eubœa.

ADVERBS.

Adverbs expressive of place, time, reckoning, separating, uniting, rank, cause, comparison, and indignation, take a genitive after them.²

Ἀμα and όμοῦ take a dative.

¹ But this termination belongs also to persons ; as, πατρόθεν, from a father.

² Μεσφά, or μεσφί, takes a genitive and accusative : σχεδόν, ἄγχι, ἐξῆς, πλησίον, a genitive and dative.

Mà and νή, adverbs used in swearing, take an accusative after them : as,

Mà Δία, no, by Jupiter ;

Nή Δία, *yea, by Jupiter.*¹

Ω is followed by all cases except the dative ; and expresses either admiration or grief.

Ω circumflex is joined to a nominative and vocative ; and implies invocation or exclamation.

Sometimes the genitive is put alone, and the adverb left out : as,

Τῆς τύχης, for ὦ τῆς τύχης,² O fortune !

RULES.

In Greek two or more negatives usually strengthen the negation.

Οὕτω is used before consonants, οὕτως and οὕτωςιν before vowels.

Particles expressive of wishing, as, αἶ, αἶθε, εἶ, εἶθε, and ὥς, are put before the imperfect ὥφειλον, or ὀφειλον, and the second aor. ὥφελον or ὀφελον, followed by an infinitive mood : as,

Ἦλυθες ἐκ πολέμου· ὥς ὥφελες αὐτόθ' ὀλέσθαι·

You are come from the war ; would that you had there perished !

Ἐως, used in the sense of as long as, is followed by all the moods, except the imperative.

Ὅταν is followed by the subjunctive, ὁπόταν by the optative.

² See p. 130.

CONJUNCTIONS.

The following conjunctions are joined to the subjunctive mood, ἐάν, ἐπειδὴν, ἵνα, ὅφρα, ὅπως, ὅταν, ὁπόταν, καὶν, and ἂν for licet, although.

Ὅπως, for πῶς, to the indicative.

Ὅτι, that, is followed by the indicative, and sometimes by the optative, and subjunctive: so also διότι and καθότι.

Ἐπεὶ and ἐπειδὴ are followed by the indicative and infinitive.

Ἐφ' ᾧ, on which account, is followed by the indicative and infinitive.

Ὡς and ὥστε are joined to the subjunctive and infinitive.

Εἰ is joined to the preterites, especially of the indicative mood, and sometimes to the subjunctive.

Ἄν may be put both before and after the verb: when it is used, in the first place, in the sense of possibility, it is joined to all the moods, except the imperative: when it is used, secondly, in an indefinite sense, it is joined to the subjunctive, and sometimes to the optative.

Ἄν is very often redundant, sometimes deficient.

Ἄν is never joined to the preter-perfect tense.

PREPOSITIONS.

There are eighteen prepositions: six monosyllables, twelve dissyllables.

The monosyllables are, εἰς, ἐκ, ἐν, πρὸ, πρὸς, σύν.

1. Εἰς, in the Attic dialect εἰς, is joined to an Accusative only, and signifies Towards ; as, εἰς ἐμὲ εὖνοια· benevolence towards me.

into or to ; as, ἀφίκετο ἐς τὴν Φρυγίαν· he went into Phrygia ; εἰς εὐωχίαν ἔρχομαι· I come to a feast.

on account of ; as, εἰς δικαιοσύνην ἐπαινεῖται· he is praised on account of justice.

against ; as, τὰ ἐγκλήματα ἐς τοὺς Ἀθηναίους· charges against the Athenians.

according to ; as, εἰς ἡμετέραν δύναμιν· according to our power.

even to ; as, δείκνυται καὶ ἐς ἐμὲ τὸ μνήμα· even to my age the tomb is shown.

amongst ; as, διαβεβλημένος εἰς τοὺς Μακεδόνας· dis-honoured amongst the Macedonians.

within ; as, εἰς ἕκτην ἡμέραν πραχθήσεται· it will be done within the sixth day.

But by Eclipsis it is joined to a Genitive ; as, εἰς ἄδου (οἶκον understood), to the dwelling of Pluto.

In composition it signifies in or into ; as, εἰσάλλομαι, I leap into ; εἰσβάλλω, I throw into.

2. Ἐκ, and before a vowel ἐξ, is joined to a Genitive only, and signifies from ; as, τιμὴ ἐκ Διός ἐστι· honour is from Jupiter.

out of ; as, ἐξ Ἀττικῆς ἰών· going out of Attica.

after ; as, ἐξ ἀρίστου προῆγε τὸ στράτευμα· after dinner he led forward the army.

according to ; as, ἐκ τῶν ἐνόντων· according to their abilities.

by ; as, ἐκ τῆς οὐρᾶς λαμβάνεσθαι to take hold by the tail.

In composition it increases the sense ; as, ἐκθαρρῶ, I am very confident ; it also signifies the same as the Latin word extra ; as, ἐξιστήμι, I cast out.

3. Ἐν, and by the Poets ἐνὶ, is joined to a Dative only,¹ and signifies in ; as, ἐν οἴκῳ in the house.

among ; as, ἐνὶ προμάχοισι μάχεσθαι to fight among the first combatants.

in presence of ; as, ἐν τοσούτοις μάρτυσι in presence of so many witnesses.

by or through ; as, ἐν νίῳ ἡμῶν ἐλάλησε he hath spoken to us by or through his son.

against ; as, ἐν ἐμοὶ θρασύς bold against me.

at ; as, ἐρρίμμενος ἐν ποσὶ prostrate at the feet.

But by Eclipsis it is joined to a Genitive ; as, ἐν αἴδου (οἴκῳ understood), in the dwelling of Pluto.

In composition it has the sense of in ; as, ἔνειμι, I am in ; ἐμβάλλω, I cast in.

4. Πρὸ,

is joined only to a Genitive, and signifies before ; as, πρὸ θυρῶν before the doors.

for ; as, πρό τε παίδων, καὶ πρὸ γυναικῶν for children, and wives.

in presence of ; as, πρὸ τοῦ βασιλέως in presence of the king.

in preference to ; as, ἐπαινεῖν πρὸ δικαιοσύνης ἀδικίαν to praise injustice in preference to justice.

In composition it has the sense of before ; as, προέχω, I go before ; προβάλλω, I put before.

5. Πρὸς, is joined to a Genitive,¹ Dative, and Accusative ;

When joined to a Genitive, it signifies

From ; as, πρὸς Διὸς εἰσιν ἅπαντες all are from Jupiter.

before ; as, πρὸς Θεοῦ καὶ πρὸς ἀνθρώπων ἀναίτιος blameless before God and men.

against ; as, πρὸς ἀνδρὸς ἐχθροῦ ἐπιφέρων τὴν ψήφον giving a vote against an enemy.

by, when used in beseeching ; as, πρὸς Διὸς φράσον tell me, I beseech you by Jupiter.

duty ; as, οὐκ ἔστι πρὸς φιλοσόφου it is not the duty of a philosopher.

near ; as, πρὸς Θύμβρης ἔλαχον Λύκιοι the Lycians had the country near Thymbra allotted to them.

When joined to a Dative, it signifies

Near ; as, ἔκειντο πρὸς τοῖς ποσὶν αὐτοῦ they lay near his feet.

besides ; as, πρὸς τοῖς εἰρημένοις· besides what has been said.

in ; as, ἡμεν πρὸς τῷδε τῷ λόγῳ· we were engaged in this conversation.

into ; as, ἔβαψας ἔγχος πρὸς στρατῷ· you have dipped your spear into the blood of the army.

When joined to an Accusative, it signifies

To ; as, ἦλθ' ἐμὰ πρὸς δώματ'· he came to my house.

in comparison of ; as, πρὸς τὰ νυνὶ δεινά· in comparison of present afflictions.

according to ; as, πρὸς ἀξίαν ἐκάστοις διανεῖμαι· to have distributed to each according to his merit.

amongst ; as, πρὸς ἀλλήλους διαλλάττεσθαι· to be reconciled amongst themselves.

on account of ; as, πρὸς καταδίκας τὴν ἐπιτιμίαν ἀπολωλεκώς· having lost his rank on account of his condemnation.

against ; as, πρὸς Ῥωμαίους μάχεσθαι· to fight against the Romans.

with ; as, πρὸς βασιλέα γενόμεναι συνθήκαι· treaties entered into with the king.

with ; as, πρὸς ἑαυτον σκεψάμενος· having considered with himself.

In composition it signifies to ; as, προσέρχομαι, I go to ; προσβάλλω, I cast to.

6. Σὺν, in the Attic dialect ξὺν, is always joined to a Dative, and signifies according to; as, σὺν τῷ νόμῳ τὴν ψῆφον τίθεσθαι· to vote according to the law.

With; as, σταυροῦνται σὺν αὐτῷ δύο λησταί· two thieves are crucified with him.

In composition it expresses union; as, συμβάλλω, I cast together; σύνδουλος, a fellow-servant.

II. The Dissyllables are, ἀμφὶ, ἀνὰ, ἀντὶ, ἀπὸ, διὰ, ἐπὶ, κατὰ, μετὰ, παρὰ, περὶ, ὑπὲρ, ὑπό.

1. Ἀμφὶ, is joined to a Genitive, Dative, and Accusative.

When joined to a Genitive, it signifies

Concerning; as, ἀμφὶ ἀστέρων ἡ γραφή· the writing concerning the stars.

around; as, ἀμφὶ πόλιος οἰκοῦσι· they dwell around the city.

for, for the sake of; as, μάχεσθον πίδακος ἀμφ' ὀλίγης· they two fight for a little fountain.

by, when used in beseeching; as, Φοίβου ἄμφι λίσσομαι· I beseech you by Phœbus.

When joined to a Dative, as it usually is in the language of the Poets, it signifies concerning; as, ἀμφὶ τῷ θανάτῳ αὐτῆς διξὸς ἐκφέρεται λόγος· concerning her death two reports are in circulation.

Around; as, ἀμφ' ὤμοις βάλετο ξίφος· he threw his sword around his shoulders.

near; as, ἤριπεν ἀμφ' αὐτῷ· he fell near him.

on account of; as, ἀμφ' Ὀδυσῆϊ δαΐφρονι δαίεται ἦτορ· his heart is tormented on account of the warlike Ulysses.

against; as, λόγους ἀνέσπα ἀμφ' Ὀδυσσεύ· he ranted out words against Ulysses.

When joined to an Accusative,¹ it signifies

About, or around; as, ἀμφὶ κάμινον ἔχω· I am employed about the furnace.

on account of; as, νεῖκος ἐτύχθη ἀμφὶ βοηλασίην· a quarrel took place on account of the driving away of the oxen.

towards; as, ἀμφ' ἄλα ἔλσαι Ἀχαιοὺς· to drive the Greeks towards the sea.

concerning; as, νόμοι ἀμφί τι καθεστῶτες· laws enacted concerning any matter.

about; as, ἡμέρα ἤδη ἀμφὶ τὸ λυκανγές· the day is now about dawn.

In Composition it signifies

Around; as, ἀμφιβάλλω, I cast around.

increase; as, ἀμφηλιξ, grown up.

2. Ἀνὰ,

is joined to an Accusative only, and signifies

Through; as, ἀνὰ στρατὸν ὦχeto κῆλα Θεοῦ· the arrows of the God went through the army.

among ; as, ἀγείρα χρήματ' ἀν' Αἰγυπτίους· I collected money among the Egyptians.

in ; as, ἀνὰ στόμα ἔχειν· to have in the mouth.

on ; as, θῆκεν ἀνὰ μυρίκην· he placed on a tamarisk.

according to ; as, ἀνὰ τὸν αὐτὸν λόγον· according to the same method.

among ; as, συνομόσας ἀνὰ πρώτους· having conspired among the chief men.

against ; as, ἀνὰ ποτάμον πλέειν· to sail up a river against the stream.

equal distribution ; as, ἀνὰ δηνάριον ἔλαβον· they received each a denarius.

But in Poetic language it is joined to a Dative, and signifies

On ; as, εὗδε πατὴρ ἀνὰ Γαργάρῳ ἄκρῳ· the father slept on the top of Gargarus.

It is sometimes, but very seldom, joined to a Genitive ; and then it signifies

Into ; as, ἀνὰ νηὸς ἔβη· he went into a ship.

In Composition it signifies

Repetition : as, ἀναβλαστάνω, I bud again.

back ; as, ἀνέλκω, I draw back.

upwards ; as, ἀναβάλλω, I lift up.

by the side of ; as, ἀνάκειμαι, I lie down by the side of.

secretly ; as, ἀναρπάζω, I snatch away secretly.

It has the sense of the Latin compound dis ; as, ἀνακρίνω, I judge between parties.

It also introduces senses quite different ; as, ἀναγι-νώσκω, I read ; ἀναιρῶ, I slay.

3. Ἀντὶ,

is joined to a Genitive alone, and signifies

For ; as, ὀφθαλμὸν ἀντὶ ὀφθαλμοῦ· an eye for an eye.
in preference ; as, ἀντὶ χρημάτων ἐλέσθαι· to choose in preference to riches.

equal to ; as, ἀντὶ πολλῶν λαῶν ἐστί· he is equal to large multitudes.

on account of ; as, ἀντὶ ποίας ἀρετῆς ἀξιῶ τιμᾶσθαι ;
on account of what virtue should I think myself worthy to be honoured ?

against ; as, ἀνὴρ ἀντ' ἀνδρὸς ἵτω· let man march against man.

In Composition it signifies

Equality ; as, ἀντίθεος, equal to a God.

change ; as, ἀνθύπατος, proconsul.

in opposition to, or against ; as, ἀντιλέγω, I speak in opposition to ; ἀντιβάλλω, I throw against.

It also introduces senses quite different ; as, ἀντιποιέομαι, I lay claim to, &c.

4. Ἀπὸ,¹

is joined to a Genitive only, and signifies

From ; as, ἀπ' ἀρχῆς μέχρι τέλους· from the be- *ginning to the end.*²

from the top of; as, ἀπὸ τοῦ τείχεος μάχεσθαι to fight from the top of the wall.

from, or after; as, ἀπὸ τῶν σῶν δειπνῶν from, or after your supper.

by reason of; as, εὗρεν αὐτοὺς κοιμωμένους ἀπὸ τῆς λύπης he found them sleeping by reason of sorrow.

after; as, ἀπὸ δ' αὐτοῦ θωβήρῃσονται (sc. δείπνου) and after it (viz. supper) they armed themselves.

by means of; as, τόξου ἀπὸ κρατεροῦ ὀλέκοντα slaying by means of his strong bow.

without; as, αὐλίξεσθαι ἀπὸ τῶν ὅπλων to watch without arms.

far from; as, μένων ἀπὸ¹ ἧς ἀλόχοιο, ἀσχαλάα remaining afar from his wife, he grieves.

In Composition it signifies

From; as, ἀποβάλλω, I cast from me.

within; as, ἀποστέγω, I confine within.

from; as, ἀπελπίζω, I conceive hope from anything.

privation; as, ἀπογενόμενος, deprived of life.

again; as, ἀποκαθίζομαι, I sit down again.

The opposite to the sense of the simple word; as, ἀποκαλύπτω, I disclose; ἀπεύχομαι, I deprecate.

It introduces also senses quite different; as, ἀποκρίνομαι, I answer, &c.

¹ But in this, and other passages, Grammarians throw back the accent, and contend that ἀπο stands for ἀποθεν. So ἀπο γνώμης, and ἀπὸ γνώμης, have quite different senses: for the former means contrary to one's opinion, the latter according to one's opinion. See Budæus, Stephens, Viger, &c.

5. Διὰ,

governs a Genitive, or an Accusative.

When joined to a Genitive, it signifies

By, with reference to a place; as, δι' ἄλλης ὁδοῦ ἀνεχώρησαν· they returned by another road.

anything done secretly, and with fraud; as, ὑπέρχομαι· I assail clandestinely; ὑπάγομαι, I am led on by stratagems.

It introduces senses altogether different; as, ὑποκρίνομαι, I dissemble, &c.

OF ACCENTS.

Certain general Rules.

1. If the last syllable be long, the accent will be placed on the penultimate.

The exceptions are as follow :

Ionic cases in the first declension of simple nouns; as, Αἰνείεω.

Attic cases:¹ as, Μενέλεως, ὄτεω, ὄτεων.²
and words compounded with γέλως as, φιλόγελως.

2. If the last syllable be short, the accent will be placed on the antepenultimate; as, φιλόανθρωπος.

The exceptions are as follow :

Participles of the preterite passive³; as, δεδεγμένος.

Verbal adjectives in έος as, οἰστέος.

Diminutives in ισκος, ιλος, and ιον.⁴ as, νεανίσκος, ναυτίλος, παιδίον.

Certain nouns; as, παρθένος, ὀλίγος, αἰγιαλός, ἀγαθός.

¹ To this head may be referred ἀνάγεων, εὔγεως, &c.

² Unless the nominative is oxytone, and then they have the acute accent on the penultimate; as, βασιλεὺς, βασιλέως.

³ But if they are changed by a figure, the accent is thrown back; as, δέγμενος. See Etym. Mag. on the word ἀκαχήμενος.

⁴ But some diminutives in ιον have the acute accent on the antepenultimate; as, γνωμίδιον, πολίχνιον.

Doric infinitives ; as, ἀείδεν for ἀείδειν.

Ionic infinitives ; as, τραφέμεν for τραφεῖν.

Poetic words in οφι· as, αὐτόφι, δακρυόφι.

Also words compounded with a noun derived from the preterite middle, if the sense is active : as, μητροκτόνος, a murderer of his mother ; πρωτοτόκος, she who has brought forth her first child ; but if the sense is passive, they follow the general rule ; as, μητρόκτονος, murdered by one's mother ; πρωτότοκος, first-born.

3. A syllable long by nature before a short vowel at the end of a word, and also before one which is long by position, if it has any accent, is circumflexed ; as, σῶμα, κῆρυξ, φοῖνιξ.

4. The circumflex accent is formed from the acute and the grave, by contraction ; as, ποιέεις, ποιεῖς.

The acute is formed from the grave and the acute ; as, ποιέέτω, ποιείτω.

Observation.

The diphthongs αι and οι, at the end of a word, are considered short with regard to accents ; as, μούσαι, ἄνθρωποι· except in contracted syllables ; as, Λητοῖ· in the pronoun οἷ· in optatives ; as, ποιήσαι, εἴποι· and in adverbs ; as, οἴκοι, at home ; οἷ, whither ; ποῖ, where, &c.

Of the Accents of Nouns.

In the three first declensions of simple nouns, if the acute accent be on the last syllable, the genitive and dative are circumflexed in all the numbers : as, Θεὸς, Θεοῦ, Θεῶ, Θεῶν, Θεοῖς.

In the other cases the acute remains : as, θεὸν, θεοί, θεούς.

Although the nominative singular be circumflexed, yet the nominative and accusative dual are never circumflexed; as,

Ὁ νοῦς, in the dual number τὼ νό· τὸ ὄστουν, τὼ ὄστώ.

If there be an accent on the penultimate, it will remain in all the cases: as, Λόγος, λόγον, λόγῳ. Except μία, from εἷς, which makes in the genitive μιᾶς, in the dative μιᾷ, and also its compounds: likewise ἄμφω, and δύω, which make in the genitive and dative ἀμφοῖν, and δυοῖν.

Nouns compounded with the particles ἀ, ἐν, δὺς, and δι, for the most part throw back their accent; as, ἄγαμος, εὔπαις, δυσεύρετος, δίψυχος.

Nouns also compounded with the prepositions ὑπὸ, ἀντί, σὺν, περὶ, and κατά· as, ὕπαυλος, ἀντίχριστος, σύνδουλος, περιέργος, κατάσκοπος, &c. Or those compounded with nouns; as, φιλόσοφος.

The genitive plural of the first and second declensions has the circumflex upon the last syllable, except in the case of genitives feminine of adjectives which are derived from masculine nouns of the third declension; as,

Μακάριος, μακαρίων.

There are some few exceptions; as, ὁ χλούνης, a rustic, Gen. τῶν χλούνων· ὁ χρήστης, an usurer, τῶν χρήστων.

In the Fifth Declension.

1. The acute accent upon the last syllable of the nominative will be on the penultimate of the oblique cases: as,

Τριάς, τριάδος, τριάδι· except in γυναικὸς, γυναικί· οὐδενὸς, οὐδενί· and μηδενὸς, μηδενί· but if the penultimate be long by nature, it is circumflexed, whenever the last syllable is short or doubtful ; as,

Σωτήρ, σωτήρος.

These nouns, δαήρ, ἀνὴρ, θυγάτηρ, πατήρ, εἰνάτηρ, σωτήρ, Δημήτηρ, throw back the accent in the vocative: as,

ὦ Δάερ, ἄνερ, θύγατερ, πάτερ, εἵνατερ, σῶτερ, Δήμητερ· and many words belonging to the first declension of contracted nouns do the same: as,

Ὁ Ἀπολλοφανὴς, ὦ Ἀπολλόφανες· ὁ συγγενὴς, ὦ σύγγενες.

2. The nouns μήτηρ and θυγάτηρ, throughout all their cases, except the vocative singular, have the acute accent on the penultimate: as,

Μητέρος, μητέρι, μητέρα· θυγατέρος, θυγατέρι, θυγατράσι· &c. unless they are syncopated; in which case the accent, in the genitives and datives, will be on the last syllable: as,

Μητρὸς, μητρί· θυγατρὸς, θυγατρί.

But in the nominatives, accusatives, and vocatives, of all the numbers, the accent is thrown back after syncope: as,

Θύγατρα, θύγατρε, &c. The accent also is thrown back in the poetic dative ποδессι.

3. Monosyllables of the fifth declension have the acute accent on the last syllable in the genitive and dative singular, and the dative plural: as,

Τῆς χειρὸς, τῇ χειρὶ, ταῖς χερσί.

In the genitive plural, and genitive and dative dual, the last syllable is circumflexed: as, Χειροῖν, χειρῶν.

In the accusative singular, and in the nominative, accusative, and vocative, both dual and plural, the penultimate, if it be long by nature, is circumflexed: as,

Χεῖρα, χεῖρε, χεῖρες, χεῖρας.

Except participles of only one syllable ; as,

Θεῖς, θέντος, θέντι· ὦν, ὄντος, ὄντι· also the genitives, παίδων, Τρώων, πάντων, δάδων, δμῶων, θφῶων, ὦτων, φώτων (lights) : for circumflexed monosyllables keep the accent upon the first syllable.

Thus πᾶσι from πᾶν· so also τίς interrogative has the accent on the first syllable in all its cases : but τὶς indefinite, and enclitic, has the accent always on the latter syllable, except where it loses it altogether by reason of the inclination.

Vocatives in εὔ, and οῖ, are circumflexed : as, ὦ βασιλεῦ, ὦ Λητοῖ, ὦ Γοργοῖ.

4. Substantives of the third and fourth declensions of contracted nouns have the accent on the last syllable ; as,

Λητῶ, αἰδώς· βασιλεὺς, Τυδεύς.

Of the Accents of Pronouns.

The acute on the last syllable of the nominative will remain so in the dative and accusative singular ; as,

Ἐγῶ, ἐμοῖ, ἐμέ· In the genitive singular, and throughout the whole of the plural number, it is changed into the circumflex : as,

Ἐμοῦ, ἡμεῖς, ἡμῶν, ἡμῖν, ἡμᾶς. In the whole of the dual it is thrown back : as, Σφῶϊ, νῶϊ, νῶϊν.

The pronouns οὗτος, αὐτός, and ἐκεῖνος, follow the form of nouns.

When γε is added by the figure paragoge, the accent is thrown back ; as,

*Ἐγωγε, ἔμοιγε. In Attic words, where ι is added by paragoge, the acute accent is placed on the last syllable ; as, οὐτοσί.

Pronouns affected by both paragoge and syncope, have the acute accent on the penultimate ; as, Ἐμέθεν.

As also those which are changed by the Ionic dialect ; as, Ἡμεῖς, ἡμέας.

In the dative plural ἡμῖν, the circumflex is sometimes changed into the acute accent ; as, ἡμίν· and the last syllable is made short.

Of the Accents of Verbs.

If the last syllable is short, the accent will be on the antepenultimate ; as, τύπτομαι.

If long, on the penultimate ; as, τυπτέσθην.

Exceptions.

In the singular number of the second future active the last syllable is circumflexed, therefore the penultimate throughout the other numbers is circumflexed ; as, τυπεῖτον, τυποῦμεν, &c.

The same also takes place in the middle voice, whenever the penultimate is long by nature before a short final syllable ; as, τυποῦμαι, τυπέται.

First futures of the fifth conjugation have the circumflex on the last syllable : as, σπερῶ· therefore in the middle the penultimate is circumflexed ; as, σπεροῦμαι.

And in the Doric dialect all first futures have the circumflex on the last syllable ; as, τυψῶ.

But when σ is added by the Æolic dialect, the accent is thrown back ; as, ὄρω.

The Participles of the Second Aorist Active, and of Preterites in ως, and those also which end in εις, have the accent on the last syllable : as,

Τυπὼν, τετυφῶς, τετυπῶς, τυφθεῖς, τυπεῖς.

In the Second Future the last syllable is circumflexed ; as, τυπῶν.

When the acute accent is on the penultimate of participles in the masculine, it will be also on the penultimate of the same words in the neuter ; as, Ποιέων, ποιέον.

These three imperatives, ἐλθὲ, come, εὗρε, find, and εἰπὲ, tell, have the accent on the last syllable : in the imperative of the second aorist middle the last syllable is circumflexed ; as, Πιθοῦ, τραποῦ.

Monosyllables, if compounded, take the acute accent on the penultimate, in the imperative mood ; as, Ἀπόδος.

In the infinitive of both the passive aorists the penultimate is circumflexed ; as, Τυφθῆναι, τυπήναι.

The last syllable of the second aorist, and second future active, is circumflexed ; as, τυπεῖν.

In the singular number of the subjunctive mood, the last syllable is circumflexed : as, Τυφθῶ, τυφθῆς, τυπῶ, τυπῆς.

In the dual and plural the penultimate is circumflexed : as, Τυπήτον, τυπῶμεν, &c.

The infinitives of the first aorist active, of all preterites, of the second aorist middle, and of the present tense of verbs in μι, take the acute on the penultimate ; as, Ἀναγκάσαι, τετυφέναι, τετύφθαι, τετυπέναι, τυπέσθαι, τιθέναι.

Unless the penultimate be long by nature, in which case it is circumflexed ; as, Πεφιλῆσθαι, ἀκοῦσαι.

In contracted verbs, the syllable formed by contraction is circumflexed, unless some one of the foregoing rules forbids it.

In the third person plural of the present tense of verbs in μι, the penultimate is circumflexed ; as Τιθεῖσι, διδοῦσι, ἰστᾶσι, ζευγνῦσι · except εἰσὶ, from εἰμί, I am.

Of the Accents of Prepositions.

All prepositions, which admit an accent, take it on the last syllable, unless they are put after the cases they govern, and are not followed by an adjective, for in that case the accent is thrown back : as,

Εἰρήνης πέρι, concerning peace.

Πέρι also, when used for περισσῶς, throws back its accent.

But the prepositions ἀνὰ and διὰ never throw back the accent, in order to preserve the distinction between them and the vocative ἄνα from ἄναξ, a king, and the accusative Δία from Δις, Jupiter.

Of the Accents of Adverbs.

Adverbs derived from the genitive plural of adjectives, retain the accent of their primitives : as,

Αἰσχροῶν, αἰσχροῶς· καλῶν, καλῶς· βραδέων, βραδέως, &c.

Adverbs in θεν, θι, σε, σι, retain the accent of the nouns from which they are derived : as,

Θεόθεν, from θεός· οὐρανόθι, and οὐρανόσε, from οὐρανός· οἰκοθεν, and οἰκοθι, from οἶκος, a house.

Attic adverbs take the accent on the last syllable ; as, Νυνί, ἐνθαδί.

Of the Accents of Conjunctions.

The conjunction ἄρα, when it is interrogative, has the circumflex on the penultimate : when expressive of inference, the acute ; as, ἄρα, therefore.

The following have no accent, ὁ, ἡ, οἱ, αἱ, εἰς, ἐς, ἐν, ἐκ, ἐξ, οὐ, οὐκ, οὐχ, εἰ, ὥς. But ὅ, ἥ, οἷ, αἶ, for οὗτος, αὕτη, οὗτοι, αὗται, and ὅ for τοῦτο, are accented ; and οὐ, or οὐκ, when it concludes a sentence, or is a sentence of itself: so also ὧς when used for οὕτως, or when put after the substantive to which it refers; as, Οἱ δὲ λύκοι ὧς.

In declinable words, whenever the last syllable is thrown away by Apostrophe, the accent, which would have been on the last syllable, is thrown back on the penultimate: in indeclinable words, it is entirely lost; as, Τέρπν' ἔπαθον· Ἀμφ' Ὀδυσῆϊ.

ENCLITIC WORDS.

An enclitic word is that which transfers its accent to the final syllable of the word preceding, to which it gives the acute: as, Ἦκουσά τινος.

The enclitics are, in the first place, The indefinite τὶς, in all its cases: and the Attic words τοῦ, τῷ, used for τινὸς, τινί· but the interrogative τίς has the acute accent on the first syllable.

Secondly, The pronouns μοῦ, μοι, μέ· σοῦ, σοι, σέ· οὐ, οἷ, ἔ· σφῶ, σφῶε, σφῆ, σφίσι· together with all those variations of them which are made by different dialects: as, Μεῦ, σεῦ, νιν, μιν, &c.—But after the conjunctions ἔνεκα, or οὐνεκα, and some others, and the disjunctive ἢ, they seldom transfer their accent.

Thirdly, The verbs εἰμι and φημι, in all the persons of the present indicative, except the second singular, and the Ionic ἔασι· as,

* Ἀνθρωπὸς εἰμι· Τοῦτό ἐστι χείρονος κάλλιον· Ἡ καλή, φασι, λαβέτω.

Fourthly, The adverbs, ποτέ, ποθὲ, ποῦ, πῶς, πῶ, πῇ, when used indefinitely, and having the accent on the last syllable. But if they are used interrogatively, they have the accent on the penultimate, and do not transfer it.

Fifthly, The two copulative conjunctions, κε and τε.

And expletives without number, ῥα, γε, νν, ννν, περ, τοι, &c.

Enclitics incline, that is, transfer their accent to the preceding word, when the preceding word has either,

1. The acute on the antepenultimate : as,

Ἀνθρωπὸς τις or

2. The circumflex on the penultimate, the last syllable being short : as, Σῶμά τι or

3. When a monosyllable goes before, which has no accent of its own : as, Οὗ τι ἀπόβλητα

Or when a preceding enclitic has lost its accent : as, Ἱατρεῖαι γάρ τινές εἰσι

Or when it has transferred it : as, Σῆμά τινές φασι.

Enclitics, however, lose their accent, when the preceding word has either,

1. The acute on the penultimate : as, Λόγος σου or,

2. The circumflex on the last syllable : as, Ὅρῳ σε or,

3. The acute on the last syllable : as, Ἀγαθόν τι.

But when they begin a sentence, they neither lose, nor transfer their accent : as,

Σὲ τὸν σκυθρωπὸν, &c.

The Verb Ἔστί,

1. Has the acute on the first syllable, when it begins a sentence, or is put immediately after the adverbs οὐκ, ὥς, καὶ, εἰ, ἀλλὰ, and τοῦτο.

2. It loses its accent after a word which has either the acute, or the circumflex, on the last syllable : as, Ἑρμῆς ἐστί.

3. It retains its accent on the last syllable, when the preceding word has the acute on the penultimate, or the circumflex on the penultimate, the last syllable being long by position : as,

Δόγος ἐστί· φοῖνιξ ἐστί.

4. But it transfers its accent, if the preceding word has the circumflex on the penultimate, the last syllable being short : as,

Φαῦλός ἐστι·

Or if the acute be on the antepenultimate : as,

Ἀνθρωπός ἐστι.

The compounds of εἰμί throw back the accent : as,

Πάρειμι, πάρεστι, πάρεσμεν, &c.

FIGURES OF SPEECH.

1. Prothesis is the addition of a letter or syllable to the beginning of a word : as,

Τεταγών, for ταγών, from τάζω, I lay hold of ;
σμικρὸς, small, for μικρός.

2. Aphæresis is, when a letter or syllable is taken away from the beginning of a word : as,

Ὀρτῇ, for ἑορτῇ, a festival.

3. Syncope takes away a letter or syllable from the middle of a word : as,

Ἔγεντο, for ἐγένετο, he was born.

4. Epenthesis is, when a letter or syllable is inserted into the middle of a word : as,

Ἔλλαβε, for ἔλαβε, he received ; ὁπότερος, for ὁπότερος, which of the two.

5. Apocope takes away from the end of a word : as,

Δῶ, for δῶμα, a house ;

Ποσειδῶ, for Ποσειδῶνα, Neptune ;

Βρὶ, for βρίαροι.

6. Paragoge is, when something is added to the last syllable : as,

Ἦσθα, for ἦς, thou wast ;

Ἐτύπτεσκε, for ἔτυπτε, he did strike.

7. Metaplasmus is the change of the last syllable in the same case : as,

Κλαδὶ, for κλάδῳ, to a branch.

But a Metaplasm generally speaking is any change in a word, by poetic licence.

8. Antithesis (which some call ἀντίστοιχος) is a change of a letter : as,

Πόρσω, for πόρῳ, at a distance.

Θάλαττα, for θάλασσα, the sea.

9. Metathesis is a change in the position of the letters : as,

Ἐρξω, for ῥέξω, I will do ;

Ἐπραθον, for ἔπαρθον, from πέρθω, I lay waste ;

Ἐδρακον, for ἔδαρκον, from δέρκω, I see ;

Καρτερὸς, for κρατερὸς, strong ;

Κᾶρτος, for κράτος, strength.

10. Synalæpha is a certain cutting off of one vowel before another in different words : as,

Τὰμὰ, for τὰ ἐμὰ, mine ;

Τοῦνομα, for τὸ ὄνομα, the name ;

Θοιμάτιον, for τὸ ἱμάτιον, the clothing ;

ᾠ'ταν, for ὦ ἔταν, O friend, or friends.

11. Anadiplosis (that is, reduplication) is the repetition of the first and second syllables : as,

Κεκάμωσι, for κάμωσι·

Ἀταρτηρὸς, for ἀτηρός·

Ἐτήτυμον, for ἔτυμον.

PROSODY,

OR THE

RULES OF VERSIFICATION.

It seems unnecessary to explain what is a foot, what is time, what a syllable, and what scanning. These we pass over, conceiving them to be already known to the learner from the prosody of the Latin language. In this place, let youths only bear in mind that ϵ and o are short; that η , and ω , with all diphthongs, are long by nature; and that a , i , and u are doubtful.

To scanning, among the Greeks, belong Apostrophus, Synecphonesis, Diæresis, and Cæsure.

1. Apostrophus is, when a , ϵ , i , o , ai , oi are cut off, the following word beginning with a vowel or diphthong. But this the Greeks either omit or observe, according to the nature of the verse; as, ᾠ γύναι, ἥ μάλα τοῦτο ἔπος νημερτὲς ἔειπες. Homer.

O lady, most true indeed is this which thou hast spoken.

Frequently, too, vowels and diphthongs are cut off before consonants: as,

Παρ' μέν οἱ ὄρια κεῖται, ὅσα δρυὸς ἄκρα φέρονται.
Near him are all the fruits, which the trees bear in their season.

Sometimes the first vowel of the following word is cut off: as,

ᾠ γαθὲ, O good man;

ᾠ νᾶξ, O king;

ᾠ νθρωπε, O man;

For ᾠ ἀγαθὲ, ᾠ ἄναξ, ᾠ ἄνθρωπε.

2. Συνίησις } Synecphonesis ¹ is the contraction of Σύζευξις } two syllables into one : as,

Χρυσέῳ ἀνὰ σκῆπτρῳ, καὶ ἐλίσσεται πάντας Ἀχαιοὺς·
With a golden sceptre, and besought all the Greeks.
 Homer.

3. Diæresis is, when two syllables are formed from the division of one : as,

Παῖς, for *παῖς εὐφρων, for εὐφρων, benevolent.

4. Cæsura is when, after a complete foot, at the end of a word, a short syllable is made long : and this in Greek verse takes place after the first, second, third, fourth, and even the fifth foot.

QUANTITY.

The quantity of doubtful vowels is determined in ten ways :

- | | |
|-----------------------------------------|------------------------------|
| 1. By Position : | 6. By Derivation : |
| 2. By one vowel coming before another : | 7. By Composition : |
| 3. By Accent : | 8. By Increase : |
| 4. By Contraction : | 9. By Rule : |
| 5. By Dialect : | 10. By Example or Authority. |

¹ Or Synæresis ; as, τείχεϊ, τείχει—Crisis τείχεα, τείχη.

1. Position.

A short vowel before two consonants, or a double one, either in the same word, or in different words, is long by position.

Sometimes however Σ is cut off, and the rule relating to position is not carried into effect ; as, “Ωρη ἐσπερίη κρώζει πολύφωνο[s] κορώνη.

At eventide the loud raven croaks. Aratus.

This is sometimes found in Latin poetry: as, in a line quoted by Cicero from Aratus :

Delphinus jacet haud nimio lustratu[s] nitore.

A short vowel before a mute, followed by a liquid, is made common.

2. One vowel before another.

Long vowels, and diphthongs, may be made short at pleasure, provided that the following word begins with a vowel or diphthong.

A short vowel before a long one, or before a diphthong, is short, unless it be made long by poetic licence.

3. Accent.

The last syllable is short, when the penultimate is circumflexed: as, μοῦσα̃.

If the penultimate, being long by nature, has the acute accent, the doubtful vowel in the last syllable is made long: as, ἡ ὥρα̃, the hour.

When a masculine noun, ending in pos, or os pure, has the accent on the antepenultimate, the feminine of it is long in the last syllable : as, ἄγιος, ἄγιᾱ.

Every circumflexed syllable is long by nature : as, πῦρ, fire.

4. Contraction.

Every syllable, made from a contraction, is long ; as, ἐβόαε, ἐβόᾱ.

5. Dialect.

- A { Doric, changed from η, is long : as, Τομᾱ̄ for τομή, a cutting.
 Æolic is short : as, Νύμφᾱ for νύμφη.
 Ionic is short in the penultimates of the preterite, and in the third person plural of verbs passive : as, Γέγᾱα for γέγηκα.
 And τετύφᾱται for τετυμμένοι εἰσί.

But a, when inserted by the Ionic dialect into verbs in aw, and preceded by a long syllable, is made long ; as also in the Ionic third person of verbs in μι as, τιθέᾱσι.

6. Derivation.

Words derived from others have generally the same quality as their primitives : as,

Νικάω, I conquer ;

Νίκη, victory ;

Ὁ νικητής, a conqueror.

7. Composition.

Compound words generally keep the quantity of the simple ones : as,

Ἡ τιμή, honour ;

Ὁ καὶ ἡ ἀτιμία, dishonoured.

A, the privative particle, is made short in composition : as,

Ἄτιμος, dishonoured ;

Ἀκλεής, inglorious.

But it is often made long by reason of two short syllables immediately following : as,

Δαίε οἱ ἐκ κόρυθός τε, καὶ ἀσπίδος ἀκάματον πῦρ,

She lighted up the unwearied fire from his helmet, and his shield. IL. ε. 4.—IL. ο. 598.

The particles also δα, ζα, ἄρι, ἔρι, βρι, δὺς, when found in composition, are made short.

8. The Increase of Nouns.

A, in the increasing syllable of the fifth declension, is short.

1. In neuter nouns in α, ας, and αρ as,

Σῶμα, a body ;

Κρέας, flesh ;

Νέκταρ, nectar.

2. In feminine, and masculine nouns, in ας as,

Ἡ Παλλὰς, Pallas ;

Ὁ μέλας, black.

3. In nouns in ψ as,

"Αραψ, —βος and in many in ξ as,
Κόλαξ, —κος, a flatterer.

4. In masculine, and feminine nouns, in $\alpha\rho$ and $\lambda\varsigma$ as,

Ὁ μάκαρ, blessed ;

Ἡ ἅλς, the sea.

Except ψᾶρ, ψαρὸς, a starling.

The genitive in avos is long, as is evident from the accent : as,

Τιτᾶν, τιτᾶνος except τάλανος and μέλανος.

The penultimate of the dative plural in syncopated nouns is short : as,

Πατρᾶσι, ἀνδρᾶσι, μητρᾶσι.

I, in the increasing syllable, is short,

1. In nouns of the neuter gender : as,

Τὸ μέλι, μέλιτος.

2. In barytone nouns, both masculine and feminine, in ios, idos, and itos as, ἔρις, ἔριδος.

3. In oxytone nouns feminine in idos as,

Ἡ πατρίς, πατρίδος.

I, in the increasing syllable, is long :

1. In nouns feminine and masculine, which have two terminations in the nominative : as,

Δελφῖς and δελφῖν, δελφῖνος ἄκτις, and ἄκτιν, ἄκτινος.

2. In monosyllables : as,

Ὁ or ἡ θῖν, θινὸς, the shore ;

Ἡ ρῖν, the nose ;

Ἡ ῖν, or ῖς, a string ;

Ὁ λῖς, or λῖν, Gen. λῖος, a lion ;

Λῖς, λιτὸς, a linen cloth.

Also ὄρνις, ὄρνιθος, a bird, has the penultimate long, and εὐκνήμιδες, a word of frequent occurrence in Homer: but in Δῖς, Δῖος, Jupiter, it is short.

I, in the increasing syllable of nouns in ιξ, and ιψ, is very frequently short: as,

Ἡ θρίξ, τρίχος, hair ;

Ἡ χέρνιψ, χέρνιβος, a vessel to wash the hands in.

Υ, in the increasing syllable, is short:

1. In nouns of one syllable in υς as,

Ὁ μῦς, a mouse, μῦός.

2. In neuter nouns in υ as, τὸ γόνυ, γόνυος, the knee.

3. In paroxytone, oxytone, and circumflexed nouns, in υς and υρ: as, ὁ νέκυσ, νέκυος, a dead body ; ὁ μάρτυρ, μάρτυρος, a witness.

Nouns in νν, which also end in υς, are long: as,

Φόρκυς, and Φόρκυν, Φόρκυνος, Phorcys.

Nouns ending in ξ and ψ have generally the increasing syllable short: as,

Ὁνυξ, ὄνυχος, a talon ;

Χάλυψ, χάλυβος, steel.

Except Γρῦψ, γρῦπος, a griffin ;

Γῦψ, γῦπος, a vulture.

The Quantity of Verbs.

An unchangeable vowel will have the same quantity in the imperfect, both in the active and passive voice, in all the moods, and also in the participles, which it has in the present tense: as,

Κρῖνω, I judge, ἐκρῖνον, κρῖνομαι, ἐκρῖνόμην, κρῖνόμενος where the syllable κρι is long.

Verbs in ύνω have the penultimate long in the present and imperfect: as, Μολῦνω, I defile.

Verbs in άνω have the penultimate short, except ικᾶνω, and κιχᾶνω.

Verbs in ύω and ίω may be considered to have the penultimate common.

Quantity in Futures and Aorists.

The quantity in the futures and aorists is sufficiently evident from the formation of the verbs. It is observed, however, that the first aorist in the third and fourth conjugation has the penultimates, a, ι, or υ, short, whenever they are short in the future.

The same is observed in verbs in άω, unless ρ, or a vowel, precedes a, in which case a is long.

Quantity in the Preterites.

If a doubtful vowel be short in the first future, or first aorist, it is also short in the preterite, both active and passive, and in the first aorist, and first future passive, through all the moods: as,

Γελαῶ, γελαῶσω, γεγέλακα, I laugh.

The third person plural of the preterite in ασι is always long: as,

Οὐκ ἀγαθόν· Κῆρες δὲ παρεστήκασι μέλαιναι·

It is not good; but the black Fates stand near.

The feminine participle of the first aorist in ᾶσα is long.

Quantity of Verbs in μι.

The reduplication peculiar to verbs in μι, unless position requires it to be otherwise, is short.

Α, of the second conjugation, is everywhere short, except in the third person of the present indicative, the subjunctive, and the participles of the active voice.

Υ, of the fourth conjugation, is made long in the singular number of the active voice. In the dual and plural, except in the third person plural, and in all the passive and middle voice, it is short.

In the singular of the imperative mood, in words of more than two syllables, the υ is short: as,

Κέκλυθι νῦν καὶ ἐμέϊο· hear now me also. Hom.

In dissyllables it is long: as,

Κλῦθί μεν, Ἄργυρότοξε· hear me, god of the silver bow. Hom.

9. RULE.

Of the first and middle syllables of Nouns.

A doubtful vowel coming before another, whether short or long, is not necessarily short, as in Latin.

A in a superlative is always short: as, Σοφώτατος.

Oxytone nouns in ια, which have the last syllable long, have the penultimate short: as, Σοφία.

Except ἀνία, sorrow; κονία, dust; καλία, a nest; ὀρμία, a fishing-line; ἀεργία, sloth; στία, a pebble: which more frequently have the penultimate long.

I is short,

1. In diminutives in ιον· as, Κοράσιον, a little boy.
2. In neuter comparatives used by Ionic writers: as, ἡδῖον, sweeter: but in the Attic dialect it is long: as,
Ξὺν ἀνδράσιω κάλλιον, ἢ κενῆς, κρατεῖν
It is more honourable to rule a populous, than an empty, country. Soph. CEdip. Tyr. 55.
3. In many adjectives in ιος· as, Αἷσιος*, worthy.
4. In many nouns in ος· as, Βίος, Βίοςτος, life.
5. In adjectives signifying possession, and matter, ending in ιος· as, ἀνθρώπινος, belonging to man; λίθινος, made of stone.
6. In those also which signify the seasons: as, Εἰαρινὸς, belonging to the spring; Θερινὸς, belonging to the summer:

but in the Ionic dialect it is made long: as,

Ηματ' ὀπωρινῶ, ὅτε λαβρότατον χέει ὕδωρ
 Ζεύς*————

In the autumnal season, when Jupiter pours down the violent rain. Il. π. 385.

Υ in pronouns is long: as,

Υμεῖς, ὑμῶν, ὑμῖν, ὑμᾶς.*

In nouns of more than two syllables in ύνη, and ύτης, υ is short: as,

Γηθοοῦνη, joy;

Βραδύτης, slowness;

Γλυκύτης, sweetness.

10. Example, or Authority.

The last way of determining the quantity of a syllable is Example, or Authority, and that is the best, the surest, and the easiest; which the reading of the Poets will furnish much more readily than any number of rules.

Of final syllables.

Words ending in a are short; as, ἡ τράπεζᾱ, a table ; Also, μαῖᾱ, μοῖρᾱ, τύψασᾱ, τέτυφᾱ, ἱνᾱ.

The following are long :

- I. 1. Nouns in εα· as, θέᾱ, a spectacle.
2. in δα and θα· and commonly in ρα.
3. in εια, derived from verbs in έω· as, Προφητεία.
4. in ια· except Δίᾱ, μίᾱ, πότνιᾱ.

II. Words of more than two syllables in αια· as, Σεληναίᾱ, the moon.

III. Nouns in ρα, when a diphthong does not go before : as, Χαρᾱ, joy.

IV. Articles in the dual number, and feminine gender : as, τᾱ.

V. The vocative of nouns in as, of the first declension : as, ὦ Αἰνείᾱ.

VI. The dual of the first and second declension.

VII. Vocatives as used by the Poets : as, ὦ Πολυδάμᾱ.

VIII. The Doric A in the genitive case : as,

Τοῦ Αἰνείᾱ, for Αἰνείου, and wherever it is put for η.

Words ending in αν are short : as,

Τράπεζᾱν, ἔτυψᾱν, μέλᾱν.

The exceptions are as follow: 1. $\pi\bar{\alpha}v$, unless it is compounded: masculine nouns in av as, $\tau\iota\tau\bar{\alpha}v$ and adverbs; as, $\pi\epsilon\rho\bar{\alpha}v$, beyond; $\lambda\acute{\iota}\bar{\alpha}v$, very.

2. Av in the first declension; as,

$\Lambda\acute{\iota}v\epsilon\acute{\iota}\bar{\alpha}v$ and in the second declension, if it has the acute accent on the penultimate: as,

$\Phi\iota\lambda\acute{\iota}\bar{\alpha}v$ and av for ωv as, $\Nu\mu\phi\bar{\alpha}v$.

Words ending in $\alpha\rho$ are short: as,

$\Nu\acute{\epsilon}\kappa\tau\check{\alpha}\rho$, $\omicron\nu\check{\alpha}\rho$, $\alpha\nu\tau\check{\alpha}\rho$ (but), $\alpha\phi\check{\alpha}\rho$.

The monosyllables $\kappa\bar{\alpha}\rho$ and $\psi\bar{\alpha}\rho$ are long.

Words ending in as are long: as,

$\Lambda\acute{\iota}v\epsilon\acute{\iota}\bar{\alpha}s$, $\tau\bar{\alpha}s$, $\mu\acute{o}\upsilon\sigma\bar{\alpha}s$, \acute{o} $\Lambda\acute{\iota}\bar{\alpha}s$, $\tau\acute{\upsilon}\psi\bar{\alpha}s$.

The exceptions are as follow: 1. Sometimes accusatives plural, which in Doric writers are found short: as, $\text{᾽Η καλὰς ἄμμε ποῶν ἐλελήθει βῶκος ἀοιδάς}$.

Truly we knew not what fine songs the shepherd could compose. Theoc. Idyl. 10, 38.

2. Feminine nouns in as as, $\lambda\alpha\mu\pi\check{\alpha}s$.

3. Masculines: as, \acute{o} $\mu\acute{\epsilon}\lambda\check{\alpha}s$, $\mu\acute{\epsilon}\gamma\check{\alpha}s$.

4. Neuters: as, $\tau\acute{o}$ $\sigma\acute{\epsilon}\lambda\check{\alpha}s$, light.

5. Also adverbs: as, Ἐκᾶς , $\alpha\tau\rho\acute{\epsilon}\mu\check{\alpha}s$.

6. Accusatives plural of the fifth declension of simple nouns: as, $\tau\iota\tau\bar{\alpha}v\check{\alpha}s$.

7. Also the second person singular of the first aorist, and of the preterite, active: as, Ἔτυψᾶς , $\tau\acute{\epsilon}\tau\upsilon\phi\check{\alpha}s$.

Words ending in ι are short: as, $\mu\acute{\epsilon}\lambda\check{\iota}$, $\omicron\tau\check{\iota}$, $\beta\acute{\iota}\eta\phi\check{\iota}$.

The following are long: 1. Adverbs and pronouns which receive an additional syllable by the figure Paragoge: as, $\Nu\nu\bar{\iota}$, $\omicron\upsilon\tau\omicron\sigma\bar{\iota}$.

2. Also the Attic ι used in the place of ϵ or α as,

Ὅδῖ for ὁδέ.

Ταυτῖ for ταυτά.

3. Also κρῖ and the names of letters : as, Ξῖ, πῖ.

Words ending in ω are short : as,

Πάλῳ, ἔρῳ, μῳ, νῳ, τῳ, τεῖῳ and those syllables to which ν is added : as, τύπτουσῳ, ἔστῳ.

Πρῖν is common : as,

Τὸ πρῖν ἐπ' εἰρήνης, πρῖν ἐλθεῖν υἱας Ἀχαιῶν.

Formerly in time of peace, before the sons of the Greeks came. II. χ, 156.

Nouns of two terminations : as, ῥῖν, λῖν, δελφῖν, ἀκτῖν, are long.

Words ending in ι s are short : as,

Πόλῖς, ἔρῖς ἔριδος, τυραννῖς τυραννίδος, τῖς, δῖς, τρῖς, with adverbs of that kind.

When the increasing syllable in the oblique cases is long, the same is long in the nominative : as, ῥῖς, δελφῖς, ὄρνις, κνημῖς, σφραγῖς, and κληῖς.

Words ending in ν are short : as, Σῦ, δάκρυ, γλυκῦ.

The following are long : 1. The fictitious adverbs $\bar{\nu}$ and γρῦ.

2. Names of letters : as, μῦ, νῦ.

3. The third person singular of the fourth conjugation in $\mu\iota$, in the imperfect, and second aorist : as, ἔδῦ, ἔφῦ.

Words ending in $\nu\nu$ are short : as,

Πολλῦν, βραδῦν, and the conjunctions σῦν, τοίνῦν.

The following are long : 1. Circumflexed words : as,

Νῦν, now, μῦν, &c.

2. Dicatalectic nouns ; that is, those which have two terminations in the nominative : as, φόρκυς and φόρκυν.

3. Nouns which in the nominative have υς long : as, ἰλὺς, mud, ἰχθὺς, a fish.

4. The first person of the imperfect of verbs in μι as, ἔζέγγυν.

Words ending in υρ are long : as,

‘Ο ψίθυρ, a whisper ; τὸ πῦρ, fire ; which, however, is short in the oblique cases.

Words ending in υς are short : as,

Βαθὺς, deep ; βαρὺς, heavy ; κόρυς, a helmet.

The following are long : 1. Κώμυς (κώμυθος), a bundle of hay ; ἄρκυς, ἄχλυς and monosyllables ; as, μῦς.

2. Participles in υς as, Ζευγνῦς.

3. Nouns declined by ος pure : as, ἰλὺς : but in ἰχθὺς the υ is doubtful.

POETIC LICENCE.

These are the rules most deserving of remark, concerning the quantity of syllables : but the licence of the Poets is almost endless, who sometimes make long syllables short, and short ones long, as if compelled by the necessity of the metre : and sometimes they make a doubtful vowel both long and short in the same word, and in the same verse : as,

“Ἀρες, Ἀρες, βροτολοιγέ, μαιφόνε, τειχεσιπλήτα.”

O Mars, Mars, slayer of men, blood-stained, destroyer of forts.

POETIC FIGURES.

1. Systole (that is, contraction or shortening,) is when a long syllable is made short : as,

Ἴν' ἐγείρομεν ὀξὺν Ἀρῆα·

That we may excite fierce Mars.

2. Ectasis (that is, extension, or diastole,) is a figure which makes a short syllable long : as,

Δὸς, μὴ Ὀδυσσῆα πτολίπορθον οἴκαδ' ἰκέσθαι·

Grant that Ulysses, the destroyer of cities, may never return home.

3. Synecphonesis, of which we have already spoken in treating of the rules of scanning.

4. Catalexis (that is, termination,) in which the concluding syllable is wanting to complete the metre : this is frequently used in Iambics and Trochaics, as are also the two following : as, Μάρτυρες, σοφώτατοι. Pindar.

5. Brachycatalexis, in which two final syllables, that is, an entire foot, are wanting : as, Ζεῦ, τεαὶ γάρ ᾧραι. Pindar.

6. Hypercatalexis, (that is, a superabundant termination,) in which there is a syllable redundant beyond the proper number of feet : as, Ἐν ἡμέρᾳ φαεινὸν, ἄστρον.

7. Enallage, in which one foot is put for another : as when a spondee occupies the fifth place, in which case the verses are called spondaic : as,

Ἀμφότερον, βασιλεύς τ' ἀγαθὸς, κρατερός τ' αἰχμητής·

8. Dialysis, (that is, a separation,) in which a word placed at the end of a line, is so divided, that one part is in the preceding verse, the other in the beginning of the verse following : as, λ' ἦρως, ἐπ' ἀκταῖσι θορῶν.

Οὐδ' ἀπίθησε νῖν, ἀλ—

TABLES OF THE DIALECTS.

The Greek language has four dialects, or principal ways of speaking, corresponding to the number of the principal nations of Greece, which vary in some things from the common language, namely, the Attic, Ionic, Doric, and Æolic: besides which, the Poets had a dialect and idiom peculiar to themselves: all which, as far as relates to the terminations of the parts of speech, will be found subjoined in the tables which follow.

The variations, however, in the other portions of words being so numerous, that they can scarcely be all comprised in any set of rules, it may be sufficient briefly to explain the more remarkable peculiarities of each.

1. The Attics change

σ into ξ· as, ξὺν for σύν·

σσ into ττ· as, θαλάττα for θαλάσσα·

σ into ρ· as, ἄρρην for ἄρσιν, a male:

η into ει· as, τύπτει for τύπτῃ·

And they make very frequent use of contractions.

2. The Ionics put

η for α· as, φιλή for φίλια, friendship:

ε for α· as, γελέω for γελάω, I laugh:

and on the contrary, α for ε· as, τάμνω for τέμνω,
I cut.

And they do not use contracted words, but upon all occasions resolve syllables as much as possible.

Of the consonants, they put κ for π· as, κως for πῶς.

And the smooth mutes for the aspirates: as,

Ἄπαιροῦμαι for ἀφαιροῦμαι.

They abstain altogether from contractions, resolve diphthongs, and take away the aspirate breathing : as, ἥλιος for ἡλιος, the sun.

3. The Dorics use

- for η· as, φάμα for φήμη, fame :
 for ε· as, πιάζω for πιέζω, I press :
 α· { γα for γε· as, ἔγωγα for ἔγωγε· for ω· as, μουσᾶν for μουσῶν, of the muses :
 πρᾶτος for πρῶτος, first :
 for ει· as, κλᾶδας for κλειῖδας, keys.

η for α· as, ζῆν for ζᾶν· and for ει· as, κοσμῆν for κοσμεῖν.
 ω for ου· as, μῶσα for μούσα, song : ὧνεκα for οὔνεκα, wherefore.

αι for ει· as, αἶθε for εἴθε, O that ! would that !

ευ for ου· as, ἀλεῦμαι for ἀλοῦμαι, I shall leap.

οι for ου· as, τύπτοισα for τύπτουσα.

ο for ου· as, λύκος for λύκους.

Of the consonants, they use σδ for ζ· as, συρίσδω for συρίζω.

σ for θ· as, σεὸς for θεός.

κ for τ· as, πόκα, ὄκκα, for πότε, and ὄτε, once upon a time.

And on the contrary, τ for κ· as, τῆνος for κῆνος, he.

4. The Æolians use, ω for ο· as, κῶρος for κόρος, a boy : and on the contrary, ο for ω· as, ἔρος for ἔρωσ, love.

αις for ας· as, καλαῖς for καλὰς, good (p. f.).

Of the consonants, they use ππ for μμ· as,

Ὀππατα for ὄμματα, eyes.

And β before ρ· as, βράκος for ράκος, a torn garment.

The Æolians throw back the accent upon the first syllable : as, κάλος for καλός.

They also reject the aspirate breathing : as, ἥλιος for ἥλιος.

And instead of ι they double the consonant following :
as, σπέῖρω for σπείρω, χέῖρες for χεῖρες.

The Poets not only have a dialect peculiar to themselves, but they also use an intermixture of dialects. Homer, who writes principally in the Ionic, intermixes with it all the rest, except the Doric : Pindar, who uses principally the Doric, unites with it the other dialects also : Aristophanes, as also Euripides, Sophocles, and Æschylus, who write chiefly in the Attic dialect, use occasionally the Doric, as in the choruses and odes.

τῆνος for ἐκείνος, D.

From the plural, ἡμέτερος, ἡμετέρα, ἡμέτερον, Dor. ἀμὸς, ἀμὰ (Poët. ἀμῆ), ἀμὸν ὑμὸς, ὑμῆ or ὑμὰ, ὑμὸν, for ὑμέτερος, ὑμετέρα, ὑμέτερον σφὸς, σφῆ or σφὰ, σφὸν, for σφέτερος, σφετέρα, σφέτερον οὗτος, and ἐκείνος, Æol.

The Attics, in speaking of a thing immediately present, and pointing it out as with the finger, add ι at the end of a word : as, οὗτοσι, τουτουι, τουτονι the neuter τοῦτο they make τουτοι, and often τουτι. In the plural, for ταῦτα they say ταυτί. So ἐκεινοσι, ἐκεινουι, &c.

The Ionians prefix ϵ to the last syllable of these pronouns immediately before the long vowels: as, Sing. οὗτος, τουτέου, τουτέω. Dual, τουτέω, τουτέοιν. Plur. τουτέων, τουτέοισι, τουτέους· so αὐτή, ταυτέης· so αὐτὸς, αὐτέου, αὐτέω. And also in the compound pronouns: as, ἐμαυτέου, ἐμαυτέω, and ἐμωϋτέου, ἐμωϋτέω· σεαυτέου, σεωϋτέω, ἐωϋτέω.
